STIFF LOSING BATTLE

Tokyo's Claim Of Sinking 157 U. S. Ships Compared To Actual 67 Figure

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Repeated sledge-hammer blows against the Japanese in the Rabaul-Solomons area by Allied army and navy planes threatened today to precipitate a major break-through by the United Nations in the enemy's tough outer defense ring.

This growing belief was underscored in Washington by a navy spokesman who pointed out that during the last six days U. S. navy pilots alone destroyed 192 Jap planes against 15 American aircraft lost—a, seven-to-one ratio. Then he added:

"The Japs have suffered enough damage to their fleet units to give them serious consideration to the base (Rabaul) as too hot to handle."

Secretary of the Navy Knox recently said that the developing military situation might force the Japs to evacuate their important base at Rabaul, once considered almost impregnable.

Stiff Battle

The stiff though losing battle put up by the Japs in the northern Solomons and around Rabaul indicated the importance placed by the enemy high command on holding as long as possible this gateway to the Japanese mandated islands in the central Pacific.

Loss of Rabaul by the Japanese would pave the way for smashing blows by land and carrier-based planes against such important enemy bases as Truk, about 800 miles to the north.

The plight of the Jap high command has been aggravated by the fact that if it risked a major fleet task force to send in reinforcements it would be open to attack from the rear by U. S. Pacific fleet units from the Hawaiian area.

Despite smashing American and Allied victories, the Japanese have been pouring planes and ships into the south and southwest Pacific battle zone, and naval officials would make no prediction on how long the enemy would be able to continue to do so.

NEW CARS PASS OUT WITH YEAR

No Civilian Automobile Production In Sight For Duration

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—American motorists were told today by an OPA spokesman that the present supply of about 55,000 new, 1942-model passenger automobiles will be depleted before the end of next year.

This gloomy news on the civilian transportation front was accompanied by a disclosure from the War Production Board that no civilian automobile production is in sight for the duration.

The OPA recently curtailed allotments of new cars for the November-December period in order to stretch out the dwindling supplies as far into 1944 as possible.

"When those cars are gone," the spokesman declared, "there just won't be any more new ones left."

Automobile dealers, however, also have an estimated 20,000 additional new passenger cars on hand which are classed as demonstrators and executive cars, he said. These autos are subject to rationing only if the dealer wishes to sell them—and OPA believes the dealers will not "let go" of their personal cars.

"There has been no discussion in WPB concerning possibility of building new cars as far as I (Continued on Page Two)

DIVIDES MONEY, BUT DIP GETS ALL SIX PURSES

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—William Allen, 75-year-old Monson state hospital attendant, today had the experience of having met up with a thoroughly thorough man—but to his sorrow.

On his first trip to Boston in 15 years, Allen yesterday distributed his $600 in cash in six different wallets distributed over his person. At Scollay square, in the heart of Boston, he met a man who admired his physique.

"You certainly are well set up for your age," commented the stranger, feeling Allen's muscles and patting him here and there.

Allen felt flattered until he returned to his room and found that all six wallets and their contents had disappeared.

Solon Would Put Farmers' Problems In Hands Of Practical Men

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Sen. Ellison Smith (D) S. C., chairman of the senate agriculture committee, called today for abandonment of the OPA unless it revises its whole farm program and chases "the theorists and college professors from its desks."

Smith said he and other committee members are convinced that unless congress forces a change in OPA there is no hope of avoiding greater shortages in meat, milk and butter, and that the problem will extend to other foods and clothing.

"We have had men here before us who have spent their lives in all phases of the agriculture industry," Smith asserted. "They are unanimous to the last man in condemning OPA practices."

"They have not complained of regulation, but they do complain of the OPA type of regulation. They recognize that it does not fit in with the every day conduct of business."

Troubles Listed

Smith, whose blast at government regulations came as the committee resumed hearings for the third successive day on the nation's food problems, laid the following troubles at OPA's door:

1. Fixing of prices and rules without first holding hearings to find out from men in each phase of agriculture what can best be done to meet price, production and distribution problems.
2. Arbitrary fixing of inflexible prices without regard to regional costs, operating margins and market requirements.
3. Sudden imposition of rules, regulations and orders without giving due notice to agriculture.
4. Issuing orders which compel cooperative farm groups and others to violate the charters of the states where they are located as well as federal income tax laws.

Knowledge Lacking

5. Complete lack of technical knowledge of farm problems.

As an example of the lack of technical knowledge, Smith said the same ceilings were priced on Vermont Macintosh apples as on Vandalias, although the former weighed 48 pounds to a bushel and the latter 30.

YANKS FIGHTING JAPS NEED MORE MEN, EQUIPMENT

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 17.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur still does not have at his command the forces and material necessary for continued large-scale operations against the Japanese, a headquarters spokesman declared today.

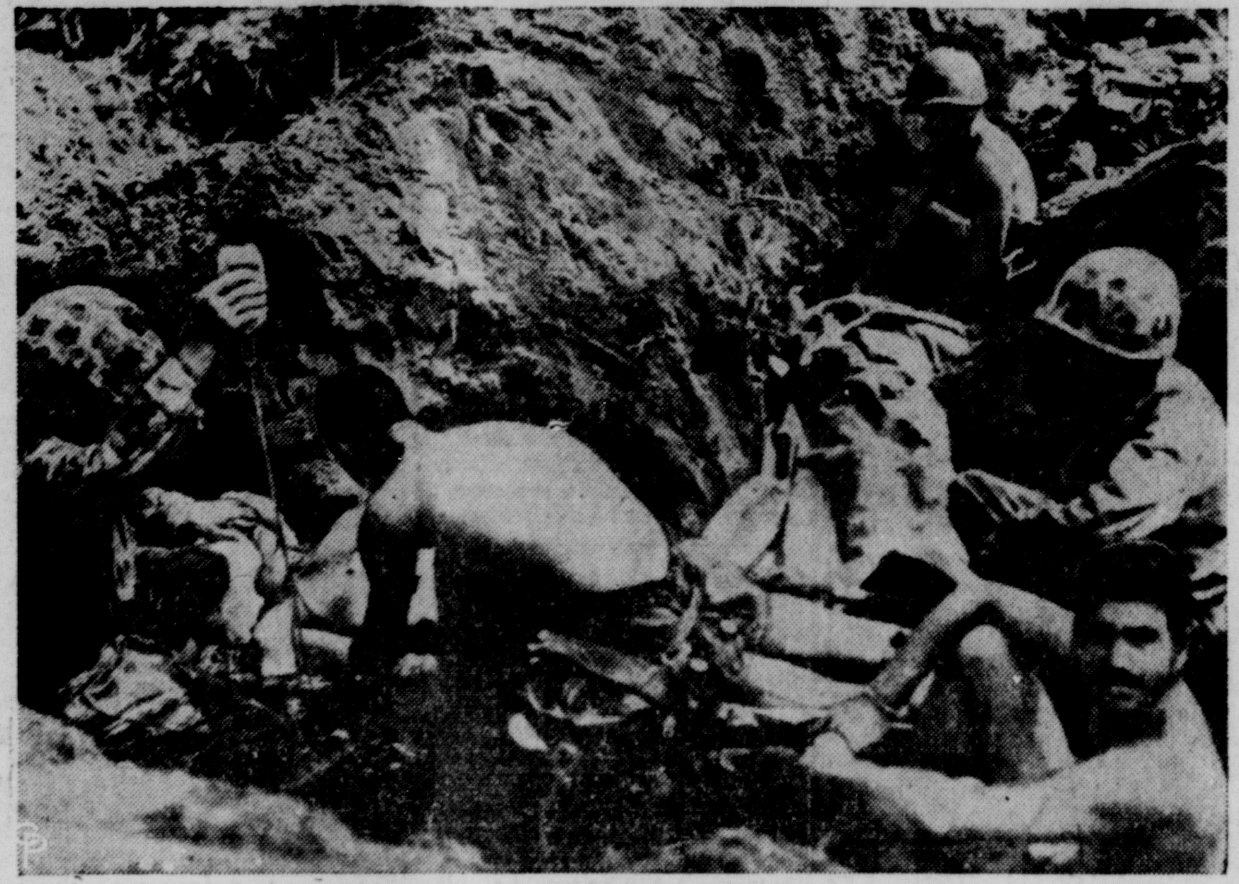

Col. Le Grande A. Diller, replying to a statement by Rear Admiral W. H. Young of the United States Navy, said that less than five percent of America's ground forces were in the Southwest Pacific and that Gen. MacArthur received less than 10 percent of United States overseas shipments.

Admiral Young was quoted in a news dispatch as saying that supplies were going to the Southwest Pacific "in quantities sufficient for large-scale operations against the Japanese."

Col. Diller acknowledged that Gen. MacArthur now had at his disposal more men and material to fight with than he had formerly, but he emphasized that the strength was by no means enormous.

The instructions to Gen. MacArthur to fight a holding war, said Col. Diller, have so far not been changed by Washington.

ARMY REPORT IRKS TULE LAKE

Citizens Dispute Claim Of No Unrest In Camp Of Disloyal Japs

TULE LAKE, Cal., Nov. 17.—An Army statement that there has been "no unrest" among 16,000 disloyal Japs at the Tule Lake segregation camp was hotly denied today by local Legion and Civilian Defense leaders.

That part of the statement saying that "duration of Army control will depend on future developments" also caused concern among spokesmen for this village of 740 persons who fear the camp will again be placed under administration of the War Relocation Authority.

Edwin A. Davis, publisher of the Tule Lake Reporter, declared: "This appears to be the first move on the part of the army to return the camp to WRA."

Clark W. Fensler, chairman of the Area War Council and director of Civilian Defense, took issue with the Army declaration that "a few articles of contraband were discovered and confiscated."

"What became of all the knives and other weapons WRA employees in sworn testimony told the state senate committee were in possession of the Japs?" he said. "The testimony showed the Japs stole knives from the butcher shop as fast as they could be purchased."

"It also showed that auto springs were being ground down in the blacksmith shop to make knives and swords. If the army hasn't confiscated these weapons, why hasn't it done so?"

While he hastened to admit that conditions at the camp have greatly improved since the Army took over, Fensler asked:

"If incidents and disturbances continue under Army rule, what will happen if the Army hands it back to the WRA?"

Other citizens of the area from ranchers and farmers to village merchants, also took exception to the Army's "no unrest" statement which was issued yesterday at Ninth Service Command headquarters.

LEWIS DEMANDS WAGE HIKE FOR OFFICE WORKERS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—John L. Lewis' "catch-all" union, District 50, of the United Mine Workers of America, today was demanding wage contracts for an estimated 12,000 "white-collar" employees of western Pennsylvania coal mine operators.

The union has served an ultimatum that "further steps will be taken" unless negotiations are begun within five days. If the demand is ignored, it was believed the mine union will ask for certification by the National Labor Relations Board.

The letter, sent to the individual operators, most of whom are members of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association, asked for a contract for the classifications of workers mentioned "in and about your mines."

This was understood to include all fire bosses, foremen and assistant foremen, mechanics and other technical employees, supervisors, payroll and supply clerks and others on mine office staffs. The coal industry has about 60,000 such employees, including 12,000 in Western Pennsylvania.

Operators in central Pennsylvania were given a similar ultimatum.

HITO ADVISER ILL; HOPE IT'S NOTHING TRIVIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Tokyo radio told the Japanese nation today of emperor Hirohito's solicitude on hearing of the illness of one of his war councilors.

The Jap broadcast, heard by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service, said:

"The emperor and empress were pleased to grant grape juice to Vice Admiral Koichi Shiozawa, a war councilor, on hearing of his critical condition."

BULGARIA AND HUNGARY LINKED IN PEACE MOVE

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Unconfirmed reports reached London today that Bulgarian officials are seeking to enlist Hungary's cooperation in seeking a joint peace with the Allies.

A Zurich dispatch to Reuters' News Agency asserted that the first step in the move was taken by the Bulgarian cabinet at an urgent session yesterday, during which the possibilities of peace were discussed at length.

Following this meeting, Foreign Minister Bogdan Filoff left by plane for Budapest to pursue the topic further with officials of the Hungarian government, Zurich sources said.

These reports coincided with other assertions that certain German quarters also are putting out peace feelers by way of neutral Lisbon.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Evening Standard labeled as "persistent" the overtures reaching official quarters via Portugal.

The correspondent reported that "high-ranking Germans" now are approaching influential neutrals in an effort to prevail on them to discuss with Allied diplomats in Lisbon the prospects of peace.

The technique now in use calls for the Germans to persuade their intermediaries to outline for the Allies methods by which "acceptable" armistice terms could be proposed without insisting on the unconditional surrender of the Reich, the correspondent added.

BAN LOOMS FOR FOOD SUBSIDY

House Abandons Hope For Compromise As Vote On Issue Draws Near

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Hope was abandoned in the house today for a practical compromise on the food subsidy deadlock.

While compromise efforts continued, with at least two proposals slated for introduction as amendments, all signs pointed to passage of the Commodity Credit Corporation extension bill and its December 31 subsidy ban when a vote is reached, probably Monday.

The bill comes up in the house tomorrow, with two full days of debate scheduled.

Speaker Rayburn (D) Tex. said the two sides in the subsidy battle were "still awfully far apart."

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, meanwhile, warned that failure of congress to approve subsidies would add a minimum of $15,000,000,000 to war costs through higher prices, higher rents, and an increase in the national debt.

"We are going to be in trouble as far as the cost of living is concerned if congress decides against the use of government funds for this purpose," Bowles said.

Latest of the compromise plans was that of Rep. Kunkel (R) Pa., which would permit continuance of the existing food subsidy program for a full year, or until December 31, 1944. Kunkel said he would offer this as an amendment to the CCC bill.

The Pennsylvania's alternative failed in the house banking committee on a tie vote of 13 to 13. Since then, Kunkel said, his proposal has gained strength.

"I'm against subsidies," he explained, "but it's becoming more and more obvious that December 31 is an awfully short time at which to cut off the subsidy program. If we pass the bill in its present form we only cut off our nose to spite our face."

Meantime, Rep. Monroney (D) Okla., a pro-subsidy member, went ahead with plans to offer a three-point compromise as a substitute for the ban on consumer subsidies. But there was serious doubt that the compromise would be accepted.

LEBANANESE FORM ARMY FOR WAR ON DE GAULLE

CAIRO, Nov. 17.—Reports from Lebanon today said that large, armed companies of Lebanese—including fierce Druse tribesmen as well as Christians—were gathered in the mountains 20 miles from Beirut.

These groups, Lebanese sources said, were formed and are led by the Emir Arslan, former national defense minister of Lebanon.

It now has been established, these sources declared, that 30 Lebanese deputies so far are known to have escaped arrest. They meet daily in a district which contains no French troops.

Although a few scattered shootings still are reported, street-car operations in Beirut yesterday for the first time since the beginning of the Franco-Lebanese disturbances last Thursday. However, after operating only half an hour, the trams were called in and service was ordered discontinued.

Some shops still remained closed, and non-official telephone service still is disconnected in Lebanon. However, the situation was easing was indicated by a Beirut broadcast which said the curfew, originally enforced from 6 p. m., had been relaxed and now commences at 8:30 p. m.

Farm Land Speculators Draw Fire

Wickard Proposes Heavy Tax On Resales Made To Gain Profit

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 17.—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard warned the nation's farmers today of the present land price boom and urged "stiff" taxes on farm re-sales to halt speculation.

Addressing the annual meeting of the National Grange, Wickard called for "a stiff special tax on profits made from the re-sale of farm real estate acquired during the emergency."

"This plan," Wickard asserted, "would not interfere with or penalize in any way the bona-fide farmer. The farmer who decides to retire and sell his farm would not be subject to the special tax—nor would the tenant who buys such a farm to hold and operate."

"However, the speculator who buys a farm and resells it within a month or six months or a year is hit—and hit hard," he continued.

Wickard told the grange members that certain interests, which profit by a land boom, will oppose the tax.

"They will attempt to confuse the issue by crying out against regimentation and government control. It is up to the farm organizations and other groups close to the farm people to see that they understand the issues and are not misled by those who would gladly profit at the farmer's expense."

JAMES STEWART NOW IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS, Nov. 17.—The race for the 1944 Republican gubernatorial nomination was formally under way today as Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati announced himself as a candidate to succeed Governor Bricker.

Stewart's formal declaration followed by only minutes his unanimous endorsement by the Hamilton county Republican executive committee. He is expected to face Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert, who as yet has not announced, in the May 9 primary.

Still factors which are to be considered, but men who are expected to withdraw soon, are State Treasurer Don H. Ebright and Lieut.-Gov. Paul M. Herbert.

Stewart lauded Governor Bricker for his stand in declaring unequivocally that he would be an all-out candidate for the presidency and not a candidate for a fourth term, and promised the governor his fullest support.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—Fellow workers were still horrified today at the death of John Shea, 33-year-old father of two children.

Shea was cremated instantly yesterday when he fell into a vat of liquid steel at the Harrison Abrasive Company foundry. He plunged into the vat after tripping over a wheelbarrow standing near the melting pot.

"Very Bad Weather" Holds Down Yanks, British In Italian Drive

Steel Pincers Closing On Nazi Forces Fighting Around Gornal

By International News Service

Allied forces on the tiny island of Leros in the Aegean sea have capitulated to the Nazis.

"The Germans have captured Leros and all organized resistance has ceased," said the statement of Middle East headquarters.

The actual surrender occurred Tuesday night, the communique said, after the Germans heavily reinforced their invading forces and the defenders had been subjected to day after day of merciless dive-bombing from Nazi Stukas based on nearby islands in the Dodecanese group.

DNE, the German agency, which announced the fall of Leros several hours before the Cairo statement was issued, claimed that 3,000 British and 5,000 Italian troops were captured. The Nazis claimed to have taken 103 guns and much other war material when the defenders capitulated.

Activity of the Fifth and Eighth armies in Italy was curtailed greatly by "very bad weather," according to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's announcement from Algiers. Fighting was confined largely to patrol clashes in which some enemy prisoners were taken.

Bombers Active

But the weather did not deter heavy bombers of the 15th American air force from roaring off from their bases in Italy to strike at military objectives in Nazi-occupied Southern France. They bombed the German Luftwaffe air field at Istres Le Tube, near Marseilles, and the nearby airdromes at Salon.

From England speedy, plywood Royal Air Force Mosquito bombers took off during the pre-dawn hours of darkness to plaster targets in western Germany. Not a single plane was lost in the attacks on the Reich, according to the air ministry in London.

In the southwest Pacific it appeared that the incessant Allied aerial blows against Jap strongholds in the Rabaul-Solomons region threatened to precipitate a major break-through in the enemy's outer defense ring of island bases.

Jap Ships Sunk

American Mitchell medium bombers made attacks from mast height on two Jap ships off Rabaul, and sank an 8,000-tonner and damaged a second ship. Night patrol bombers caught a third Jap vessel in the St. George channel adjacent to the Bismarck sea, and after one American bomb scored a direct hit the Japanese skipper beached his craft on the shores of New Ireland.

In Russia the German high command threw vast reserves into the battle on the part of the front between Gornal and Zhitomir in a desperate effort to halt the Soviet drive which was surging.

GIRL, 15, FINDS $1,600 AND PAYS REWARD TO SELF

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17.—A 15-year-old South Bend girl proudly displayed a brand new $115 wardrobe today, while Mrs. Bessie Negus of Grand Rapids, Mich., was grateful for the return of $1,485 of the $1,600 she lost in a taxicab 11 days ago.

Mrs. Negus first received $1,300 of her lost money in an anonymous letter a few days ago. The sender wrote that $300 was being kept as a "reward for honesty."

Police said the reward was cut to $115 when the girl was identified as the finder by her parents who had become suspicious of her elaborate clothing purchases.

Another $185 then was sent back to Mrs. Negus. That was what the girl had left from her purchases.

The technique now in use calls for the Germans to persuade their intermediaries to outline for the Allies methods by which "acceptable" armistice terms could be proposed without insisting on the unconditional surrender of the Reich, the correspondent added.

LEWIS DEMANDS WAGE HIKE FOR OFFICE WORKERS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—John L. Lewis' "catch-all" union, district 50, of the United Mine Workers of America, today was demanding wage contracts for an estimated 12,000 "white-collar" employees of western Pennsylvania coal mine operators.

The union has served an ultimatum that "further steps will be taken" unless negotiations are begun within five days. If the demand is ignored, it was believed the mine union will ask for certification by the National Labor Relations Board.

The letter, sent to the individual operators, most of whom are members of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association, asked for a contract for the classifications of workers mentioned "in and about your mines."

This was understood to include all fire bosses, foremen and assistant foremen, mechanics and other technical employees, supervisors, payroll and supply clerks and others on mine office staffs. The coal industry has about 60,000 such employees, including 12,000 in Western Pennsylvania.

Operators in central Pennsylvania were given a similar ultimatum.

BAN LOOMS FOR FOOD SUBSIDY

House Abandons Hope For Compromise As Vote On Issue Draws Near

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Hope was abandoned in the house today for a practical compromise on the food subsidy deadlock.

While compromise efforts continued, with at least two proposals slated for introduction as amendments, all signs pointed to passage of the Commodity Credit Corporation extension bill and its December 31 subsidy ban when a vote is reached, probably Monday. The bill comes up in the house tomorrow, with two full days of debate scheduled.

Speaker Rayburn (D) Tex. said the two sides in the subsidy battle were "still awfully far apart."

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, meanwhile, warned that failure of congress to approve subsidies would add a minimum of $15,000,000,000 to war costs through higher prices, higher rents, and an increase in the national debt.

"We are going to be in trouble as far as the cost of living is concerned if congress decides against the use of government funds for this purpose," Bowles said.

Latest of the compromise plans was that of Rep. Kunkel (R) Pa., which would permit continuance of the existing food subsidy program for a full year, or until December 31, 1944. Kunkel said he would offer this as an amendment to the CCC bill.

The Pennsylvania's alternative failed in the house banking committee on a tie vote of 13 to 13. Since then, Kunkel said, his proposal has gained strength.

"I'm against subsidies," he explained, "but it's becoming more and more obvious that December 31 is an awfully short time at which to cut off the subsidy program. If we pass the bill in its present form we only cut off our nose to spite our face."

Meanwhile, Rep. Monroney (D) Okla., a pro-subsidy member, went ahead with plans to offer a three-point compromise as a substitute for the ban on consumer subsidies. But there was serious doubt that the compromise would be accepted. (Continued on Page Two)

VAT OF MOLTEN STEEL DEATH TRAP FOR WORKER

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—Fellow workers were still horrified today at the death of John Shea, 33-year-old father of two children.

Shea was cremated instantly yesterday when he fell into a vat of liquid steel at the Harrison Abrasive Company foundry. He plunged into the vat after tripping over a wheelbarrow standing near the melting pot.

Farm Land Speculators Draw Fire

Wickard Proposes Heavy Tax On Resales Made To Gain Profit

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 17.—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard warned the nation's farmers today of the present land price boom and urged "stiff" taxes on farm re-sales to halt speculation.

Addressing the annual meeting of the National Grange, Wickard called for "a stiff special tax on profits made from the re-sale of farm real estate acquired during the emergency."

"This plan," Wickard asserted, "would not interfere with or penalize in any way the bona-fide farmer. The farmer who decides to retire and sell his farm would not be subject to the special tax—nor would the tenant who buys such a farm to hold and operate."

"However, the speculator who buys a farm and resells it within a month or six months or a year is hit—and hit hard," he continued.

Wickard told the grange members that certain interests, which profit by a land boom, will oppose the tax.

"They will attempt to confuse the issue by crying out against regimentation and government control. It is up to the farm organizations and other groups close to the farm people to see that they understand the issues and are not misled by those who would gladly profit at the farmer's expense."

JAMES STEWART NOW IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS, Nov. 17.—The race for the 1944 Republican gubernatorial nomination was formally under way today as Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati announced himself as a candidate to succeed Governor Bricker.

Stewart's formal declaration followed by only minutes the unanimous endorsement by the Hamilton county Republican executive committee. He is expected to face Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert, who as yet has not announced, in the May 9 primary.

Still factors which are to be considered, but men who are expected to withdraw soon, are State Treasurer Don H. Ebright and Lieut.-Gov. Paul M. Herbert.

Stewart lauded Governor Bricker for his stand in declaring unequivocally that he would be an all-out candidate for the presidency and not a candidate for a fourth term, and promised the governor his fullest support.

LEBANESE FORM ARMY FOR WAR ON DE GAULLE

CAIRO, Nov. 17.—Reports from Lebanon today said that large, armed companies of Lebanese—including fierce Druse tribesmen as well as Christians—were gathered in the mountains 20 miles from Beirut.

These groups, Lebanese sources said, were formed and are led by the Emir Arslan, former national defense minister of Lebanon.

It now has been established, these sources declared, that 30 Lebanese deputies so far are known to have escaped arrest. They meet daily in a district which contains no French troops.

Although a few scattered shootings still are reported, street-cars operated in Beirut yesterday for the first time since the beginning of the Franco-Lebanese disturbances last Thursday. However, after operating only half an hour, the trams were called in and service was ordered discontinued.

Some shops still remained closed, and non-official telephone service still is disconnected in Lebanon. However, the situation was easing was indicated by a Beirut broadcast which said the curfew, originally enforced from 6 p. m., had been relaxed and now commences at 8:30 p. m.

GERMANS CLAIM 8,000 SOLDIERS TAKEN PRISONER

"Very Bad Weather" Holds Down Yanks, British In Italian Drive

RUSS NEARING POLAND

Steel Pincers Closing On Nazi Forces Fighting Around Gornel

By International News Service Allied forces on the tiny island of Leros in the Aegean sea have capitulated to the Nazis.

"The Germans have captured Leros and all organized resistance has ceased," said the statement of Middle East headquarters.

The actual surrender occurred Tuesday night, the communiqué said, after the Germans heavily reinforced their invading forces and the defenders had been subjected to day after day of merciless dive-bombing from Nazi Stukas based on nearby islands in the Dodecanese group.

DNE, the German agency, which announced the fall of Leros several hours before the Cairo statement was issued, claimed that 3,000 British and 5,000 Italian troops were captured. The Nazis claimed to have taken 103 guns and much other war material when the defenders capitulated.

Activity of the Fifth and Eighth armies in Italy was curtailed greatly by "very bad weather," according to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's announcement from Algiers. Fighting was confined largely to patrol clashes in which some enemy prisoners were taken.

Bombers Active

But the weather did not deter heavy bombers of the 15th American air force from roaring off from their bases in Italy to strike at military objectives in Nazi-occupied Southern France. They bombed the German Luftwaffe air field at Istres Le Tube, near Marseilles, and the nearby airdrome at Salon.

From England speedy, plywood Royal Air Force Mosquito bombers took off during the pre-dawn hours of darkness to plaster targets in western Germany. Not a single plane was lost in the attacks on the Reich, according to the air ministry in London.

In the southwest Pacific it appeared that the incessant Allied aerial blows against Jap strongholds in the Rabaul-Solomons region threatened to precipitate a major breakthrough in the enemy's outer defense ring of island bases.

Jap Ships Sunk

American Mitchell medium bombers made attacks from mast height on two Jap ships off Rabaul, and sank an 8,000-tonner and damaged a second ship. Night patrol bombers caught a third Jap vessel in the St. George channel adjacent to the Bismarck sea, and after one American bomb scored a direct hit the Japanese skipper beached his craft on the shores of New Ireland.

In Russia the German high command threw vast reserves into the battle on the part of the front between Gornel and Zhitomir in a desperate effort to halt the Soviet drive which was surging. (Continued on Page Two)

GIRL, 15, FINDS $1,600 AND PAYS REWARD TO SELF

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17.—A 15-year-old South Bend girl proudly displayed a brand new $115 wardrobe today, while Mrs. Bessie Negus of Grand Rapids, Mich., was grateful for the return of $1,485 of the $1,600 she lost in a taxicab 11 days ago.

Mrs. Negus first received $1,300 of her lost money in an anonymous letter a few days ago. The sender wrote that $300 was being kept as a "reward for honesty." Police said the reward was cut to $115 when the girl was identified as the finder by her parents who had become suspicious of her elaborate clothing purchases.

Another $185 then was sent back to Mrs. Negus. That was what the girl had left from her purchases.

the latter only 42 pounds, making a difference in the market price per bushel.

"This program is reducing production at a time when we need it most," he asserted. "We will, as the result of it, soon find ourselves not only with much less of all the rationed foods, but we will have to extend rationing to others, and perhaps clothing."

Smith said he included clothing because of the drop in wool clips which may follow if regulations pertaining to western lamb raisers and feeders are continued.

As a remedy, Smith said he favored putting agriculture problems in the hands of practical men rather than "theorists and college professors" who have "no farming or business experience."

"I am completely against putting any of this authority in the hands of men who simply do not know what they are doing," Smith asserted.

THREE HURT, ONE SERIOUSLY, IN HEAD-ON CRASH

Two Stoutsville women and a 16-year-old girl were hurt, one of the women seriously, in an automobile crash at 6 p. m. Tuesday on Route 159, one and one-half miles south of its intersection with Route 22 near Amanda.

Injured were:
Mrs. Eliza Greene, 48, wife of Clarence Greene, who is suffering from a possible skull fracture, a broken jaw, chest injuries and deep lacerations on her lower lip, cheek, forehead and left leg below the knee;

Mrs. Frances Hutchinson, 32, driver of one of the cars, who has multiple cuts, including a deep laceration over her left eye, the left knee and the left forearm, which may also be broken;

Georgia Hutchinson, 16, daughter of the driver, who has cuts on the left side of her face and the right leg.

Mrs. Greene and Mrs. Hutchinson, who is the wife of Millard Hutchinson, remained in Berger hospital Wednesday after being taken there in the Crites and Van Cleave ambulance from Amanda. Mrs. Hutchinson's daughter was treated and discharged.

Mrs. Greene's condition was considered serious.

Highway patrolmen stationed at Lancaster said the second car which figured in the collision was driven by Arling Levan, 17, of Amanda Route 2. His injuries were minor, including a cut on the side of the head. He was permitted to go to his home. Levan was riding alone.

Patrolmen said they were unable to determine just how the accident happened. Both cars were traveling just after dark on a straight road. The collision was almost head-on, patrolmen declared. Both cars were seriously damaged.

PHYSICAL ED TO BE EXPANDED AT HIGH SCHOOL

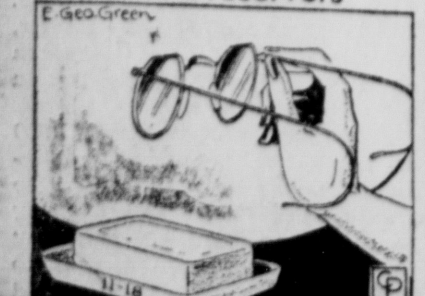

Development of a more complete physical education program in Circleville high school will be planned soon by school administrators following appropriation by the board of education of $600 with which to purchase gymnasium equipment.

The order for the equipment, including parallel bars and other devices used in recreation, was sent to a dealer Wednesday, the school board hoping to have the equipment installed during the next few weeks.

At present the gymnasium is without any equipment except basketball hoops.

quarters, Salt Lake City. They pointed out that from persons who have been in the camp, it is widely known the Japs segregate have adopted an attitude of "passive resistance" marked by defiance of Army authority and nuisance work stoppages.

The passive resistance campaign reached a climax last Saturday when the segregated, called to assemble in the camp colony to hear an address by Lieut. Col. Verne Austin, Army commander, defied military rule and remained in their quarters.

Evidence that military authorities were alarmed by the situation and feared other consequences was seen in the fact that the camp was alert that afternoon, all passes cancelled and soldiers in town were recalled.

Townpeople pointed out that there were three days of demonstrations by school children, who marched through the colony under the direction of older Japs. The children reportedly wore head bands bearing the rising sun insignia and flaunted small Jap flags in the soldiers' faces.

A source from within the camp said that six more Jap ring-leaders were placed in a special stockade as a result. Meantime, the village "war council" awaited the arrival of Rep. Clair Engle (D) of California, to formulate a campaign that will assure permanent retention of camp rule by the Army.

Engle, who has been traveling through the state in connection with an investigation to set the stage for a Dies subcommittee probe, failed to arrive yesterday as scheduled.

JAPANESE DOING OKEH IN MAKING VICTORY CLAIMS

LONDON, Nov. 17—Japanese imperial headquarters claimed today that Nipponese aircraft had sunk seven Allied warships in a dawn attack south of Bougainville.

This latest in a series of wild claims regarding Japanese successes in South Pacific engagements was entirely unsubstantiated.

The communique was broadcast by the Tokyo radio and recorded by Reuters.

The Japs asserted that their planes sank a large aircraft carrier, two medium carriers, three cruisers and another large unidentified warship.

Five Japanese planes were said to be missing as a result of the attack.

The Jap agency Domei stated subsequently that Japanese naval aircraft later attacked an Allied convoy off Cape Torokina and claimed a large transport was severely damaged.

MORE SCARLET FEVER REPORTED IN JACKSON

Two more scarlet fever cases were under quarantine Wednesday in Pickaway county, both being reported in Jackson township.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, who posted the quarantines, said the cases were in different parts of the township.

Betty Jenkins, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Jenkins, and Esther McKittrick, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McKittrick, are the children suffering from the disease. The children are very ill, neither being bedfast. However, the homes have been closed in an effort to prevent spread of the disease.

The two cases in Jackson township are the only ones in Pickaway county outside of Saltcreek township where several homes are under quarantine.

know," one WPB official declared. Although some auto dealers have asserted that the end of the European war would see resumption of automobile production in this country, this optimistic view was squelched by WPB officials who see "no new automobiles being built for the duration."

Meanwhile, it is estimated that there are about 30 million automobiles—of all types—used in the United States under normal conditions. That figure is expected to be trimmed by about one-third, or to 20 million—within another year due to the short supply and the continuous wearing out of machines.

Last year civilians, under rationing, received about 225,000 new model cars compared with the present supply of less than 55,000. According to OPA, there were 252,972 cars in the nation's stockpile and of that number the Army and Navy got 10 percent or about 25,000.

zone regardless of losses," a navy spokesman told newsmen. "He also has been sending down ships to be sunk or damaged."

Meanwhile, the Tokyo radio not only minimized the American and Allied offensive but has been broadcasting reports of fantastic Japanese victories in the air and on the sea.

A recapitulation of Tokyo claims based on imperial headquarters statements, communiques and reports of the government news agency Domei, the Japs to date have sunk the following Allied warships:

Twenty-six battleships; 14 carriers; 80 cruisers; 82 destroyers, and 147 submarines, for a total of 349. In addition, 144 Allied warships have been reported damaged.

Included in the total were the following alleged U. S. losses: 11 battleships; 13 carriers; 40 cruisers; 33 destroyers and 60 submarines for a total of 157.

Recently a Navy spokesman declared that all American naval ship losses to date have been announced, and these official figures show the following vessels sunk: One battleship; four carriers; 9 cruisers; 39 destroyers and 14 submarines.

2—A nine-month time limit on subsidy payments, permitting to continue until September 30, 1944.

3—An end to subsidies should the "Little Steel" wage formula be broken by an increase of an additional five or 10 percent in permissible pay increases.

LOCAL DRAFTEES SENT TO ENGINEERING CAMP

Several members of the Pickaway county October draft contingent, sent to Fort Hayes, Columbus, for classification and assignment have been sent to the engineering corps training at Camp Robinson, Ark.

Included in the engineer trainees are Gerald Majors, Charles Gray and Woodrow Dumm.

Turney Ross and John McGinnis of Circleville have been sent to Fort Myer, Va., in the military police school.

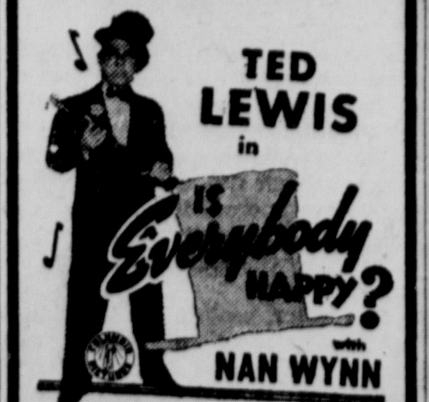

Charles Garner, Jr., of Circleville, has been assigned to the infantry school at Camp Wheeler, Ga. Loren W. Crissinger, Ashville, has also been sent to Camp Wheeler.

Capture by the Russians of the strategically important railway center of Korosten appeared imminent, and Moscow claimed that more than 1,000 Nazis were killed in fighting in that area alone on Tuesday. The Soviets captured Zlobichi and pressed on to a point only six miles from Korosten in spite of fierce infantry and tank counterattacks hurled into the fray by the battered Nazis.

Farther to the north the Russian pincers of steel appeared closing slowly but inexorably around German-held Gomel, and Soviet artillery moved up close enough to hurl heavy high-explosive shells into the German fortifications in Gomel's outlying districts.

EDDIE TOOTLE JAILED IN BURGLARY INQUIRY

Eddie Tootle of Deercreek township is in Pickaway county jail pending completion of a breaking and entering investigation involving theft of some items from the home of Heber Ater, whose home is near the residence where Tootle was staying.

Tootle and his friend, Carrie Bates Robinson, were arrested at midnight Tuesday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Vern Pontious. They were hiding under a bed, the sheriff said.

After directed attention to Tootle after his home was broken into Tuesday. The Deercreek township man told the sheriff a Marlin rifle and some shells, an old .25 caliber revolver, a soldier's blouse and between 350 and 400 pennies had been stolen.

The sheriff said no charges have been filed against Tootle pending a complete investigation.

STOCKYARDS IN ST. PAUL HIT BY PIG AVALANCHE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 17—No little pigs went to market today at the South St. Paul Union stockyards—and no other kind of livestock either. There was an embargo on.

With facilities of the stockyards and the huge packing plants swamped by the arrival of around 150,000 hogs over the week end, along with heavy shipments of cattle and other livestock, officials clamped down an embargo on all stock brought in by truck, effective from 6 last night until tomorrow at midnight.

The embargo also applied to livestock loaded on trains after last midnight.

When the embargo went on last night there was a mile-long line of pig-loaded trucks clamoring for entrance to the yards. Meanwhile officials were sending out appeals through the press and by radio for more help.

Wounded Adelphi Man Spoiling To Get Back In Fight Against Hun

Roy Congrove, 28-year-old Adelphi grocery store clerk, is spoiling to get back into service against the Nazis.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Jennie Congrove, the flyer, a tail gunner on a Flying Fortress, says that he is in an English hospital suffering from a leg fracture. He was hurt when he bailed out of a Fortress from which all controls had been shot during an attack on the German mainland.

Congrove was reported Tuesday by the War department to have been injured after he leaped from the Fortress. His mother had received a letter from him prior to that time telling of the accident.

The flyer, who had worked in the Hosier general store in Adelphi for many years before entering service with a Rome county draft contingent, wrote to his mother that the plane's captain decided at 5,000 feet that it would be impossible to land the big Fortress. He ordered every member of the crew to take to his parachute, then turned the Fortress toward German territory, set the controls, and abandoned the big craft.

The act received considerable publicity a month ago, many persons wondering what the Germans might have thought when the plane returned over their territory without any American flyers on it.

The Curtin youth is now in a North African hospital, but he has not yet received any of the mail sent to him by his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Curtin have not been given any definite information concerning the nature of his injuries.

(Continued from Page One) quarters, Salt Lake City. They pointed out that from persons who have been in the camp, it is widely known the Japs segregate have adopted an attitude of "passive resistance" marked by defiance of Army authority and nuisance work stoppages.

The passive resistance campaign reached a climax last Saturday when the segregates, called to assemble in the camp colony to hear an address by Lieut. Col. Verne Austin, Army commander, defied military rule and remained in their quarters.

Evidence that military authorities were alarmed by the situation and feared other consequences was seen in the fact that the camp was alert that afternoon, all passes cancelled and soldiers in town were recalled.

Townpeople pointed out that there were three days of demonstrations by school children, who marched through the colony under the direction of older Japs. The children reportedly wore head bands bearing the rising sun insignia and flaunted small Jap flags in the soldiers' faces.

A source from within the camp said that six more Jap ring-leaders were placed in a special stockade as a result. Meantime, the village "war council" awaited the arrival of Rep. Clair Engle (D) of California, to formulate a campaign that will assure permanent retention of camp rule by the Army.

Engle, who has been traveling through the state in connection with an investigation to set the stage for a Dies subcommittee probe, failed to arrive yesterday as scheduled.

JAPANESE DOING OKEH IN MAKING VICTORY CLAIMS

LONDON, Nov. 17—Japanese imperial headquarters claimed today that Nipponese aircraft had sunk seven Allied warships in a dawn attack south of Bougainville.

This latest in a series of wild claims regarding Japanese successes in South Pacific engagements was entirely unsubstantiated.

The communique was broadcast by the Tokyo radio and recorded by Reuters.

The Japs asserted that their planes sank a large aircraft carrier, two medium carriers, three cruisers and another large unidentified warship.

Five Japanese planes were said to be missing as a result of the attack.

The Jap agency Domei stated subsequently that Japanese naval aircraft later attacked an Allied convoy off Cape Torokina and claimed a large transport was severely damaged.

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

DOG TAGS ARRIVE

Auditor's office has received its supply of 1944 dog tags, sale opening December 15 and continuing until January 20. No tags can be sold before December 15.

MORE SCARLET FEVER REPORTED IN JACKSON

Two more scarlet fever cases were under quarantine Wednesday in Pickaway county, both being reported in Jackson township.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, who posted the quarantines, said the cases were in different parts of the township.

Betty Jenkins, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins, and Esther McKittrick, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McKittrick, are the children suffering from the disease. The children are very ill, neither being bedfast. However, the homes have been closed in an effort to prevent spread of the disease.

The two cases in Jackson township are the only ones in Pickaway county outside of Saltcreek township where several homes are under quarantine.

Although some auto dealers have asserted that the end of the European war would see resumption of automobile production in this country, this optimistic view was squelched by WPB officials who see "no new automobiles being built for the duration."

Meanwhile, it is estimated that there are about 30 million automobiles—of all types—used in the United States under normal conditions. That figure is expected to be trimmed by about one-third, or to 20 million—within another year due to the short supply and the continuous wearing out of machines.

Last year civilians, under rationing, received about 225,000 new model cars compared with the present supply of less than 55,000. According to OPA, there were 252,972 cars in the nation's stockpile and of that number the Army and Navy got 10 percent or about 25,000.

NIPS SUFFERING SERIOUS LOSSES IN RABAU AREA

Damage To Vital Fleet Units May Make Base Too Hot To Handle

(Continued from Page One) zone regardless of losses," a navy spokesman told newsmen. "He also has been sending down ships to be sunk or damaged."

Meanwhile, the Tokyo radio not only minimized the American and Allied offensive but has been broadcasting reports of fantastic Japanese victories in the air and on the sea.

A recapitulation of Tokyo claims based on imperial headquarters statements, communiques and reports of the government news agency Domei, the Japs to date have sunk the following Allied warships:

Twenty-six battleships; 14 carriers; 80 cruisers; 82 destroyers, and 147 submarines, for a total of 349. In addition, 144 Allied warships have been reported damaged.

Included in the total were the following alleged U. S. losses: 11 battleships; 13 carriers; 40 cruisers; 33 destroyers and 60 submarines for a total of 157.

Recently a Navy spokesman declared that all American naval ship losses to date have been announced, and these official figures show the following vessels sunk: One battleship; four carriers; 9 cruisers; 39 destroyers and 14 submarines.

Monroney said he would seek an advance opinion from the house parliamentary today. His amendment would provide:

1—A $900,000,000 limit on the amount that could be paid out in subsidies to "hold the line" on living costs.

2—A nine-month time limit on subsidy payments, permitting them to continue until September 30, 1944.

3—An end to subsidies should the "Little Steel" wage formula be broken by an increase of an additional five or 10 percent in permissible pay increases.

LOCAL DRAFTEES SENT TO ENGINEERING CAMP

Several members of the Pickaway county October draft contingent, sent to Fort Hayes, Columbus, for classification and assignment have been sent to the engineering corps training at Camp Robinson, Ark.

Included in the engineer trainees are Gerald Majors, Charles Gray and Woodrow Dumm.

Turney Ross and John McGinnis of Circleville have been sent to Fort Myer, Va., in the military police school.

Charles Garner, Jr., of Circleville, has been assigned to the infantry school at Camp Wheeler, Ga. Loren W. Crissinger, Ashville, has also been sent to Camp Wheeler.

DEALER SETS SIX LIMIT ON SHELL PURCHASES

Some Circleville district hunters obtained a limited supply of shotgun shells Tuesday when a Circleville store received a small amount of ammunition.

The dealer limited purchases to six shells per customer, disposing of his entire stock in a short time.

Rabbit and pheasant seasons open Friday in Ohio, with many hunters still being without any shells.

Capture by the Russians of the strategically important railway center of Korosten appeared imminent, and Moscow claimed that more than 1,000 Nazis were killed in fighting in that area alone on Tuesday. The Soviets captured Zlobichi and pressed on to a point only six miles from Korosten in spite of fierce infantry and tank counterattacks hurled into the fray by the battered Nazis.

Farther to the north the Russian pincers of steel appeared closing slowly but inexorably around German-held Gomel, and Soviet artillery moved up close enough to hurl heavy high-explosive shells into the German fortifications in Gomel's outlying districts.

EDDIE TOOTLE JAILED IN BURGLARY INQUIRY

Eddie Tootle of Desrcreek township is in Pickaway county jail pending completion of a breaking and entering investigation involving theft of some items from the home of Heber Ater, whose home is near the residence where Tootle was staying.

Tootle and his friend, Carrie Bates Robinson, were arrested at midnight Tuesday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Vern Pontious. They were hiding under a bed, the sheriff said.

After directed attention to Tootle after his home was broken into Tuesday, The Desrcreek township man told the sheriff a Marlin rifle and some shells, an old .25 caliber revolver, a soldier's blouse and between 350 and 400 pennies had been stolen.

The sheriff said no charges have been filed against Tootle pending a complete investigation.

County Included In Association Planning Post War Public Works

Pickaway county today is included in the Central Ohio Regional Planning Association, comprised of eight counties served by Division Six of the state highway department, and organized to plan post war public works.

Several Circleville civic organizations were represented at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the Neil House, Columbus, A. V. Osborn representing Chamber of Commerce; Judson Lanman, Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Tom A. Renick, Kiwanis club.

An outline of post war activities was given by J. Perry Shumaker, Delaware, highway engineer for Division Six, who was made chairman of the Central Ohio association.

Mr. Shumaker asks members of delegations from the eight counties in the district to prevail on their county commissioners and city officials to prepare projects which can be put into operation as soon after the war as possible.

Shumaker pointed out the importance of having plans completed for numerous projects so immediate approval can be obtained and work can be started as soon as materials are available.

The Central Ohio association was organized so that project-preparing can be coordinated so that as little waste effort as possible may be expended in obtaining project approval.

Dan Tabor, former public relations director of the state highway department and at present secretary of the Ohio Foundation, an organization working on post war activities, was named secretary of the Central Ohio unit.

Mr. Shumaker revealed that one of the most important projects being considered in the central Ohio area is a divided pavement on Route 23, south of Columbus, which may extend as far as Circleville.

Details of the plan have not been worked out, the highway chief pointed out, but it is under consideration. If approved by the state highway department, plans must be submitted to the Public Roads Administration in Washington.

Another project important to local folk would be construction of a new bridge over Big Walnut Creek, just north of the Pickaway county line in Franklin county.

Local highway department officials are working on several projects which would be strictly Pickaway county undertakings, but so far none has progressed far enough to be announced.

French and Mrs. James Cerney and son of Dayton were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Clements and son, John.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Severs and son, Stanley, of Columbus were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wright and daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. William Scott Stevenson Jr. of Springfield was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Stevenson and daughter Annamae.

Mrs. George Donohoe is a patient in White Cross hospital, Columbus, having entered that hospital Thursday morning.

Mrs. Nellie Drake and daughter Joanne were weekend guests of Mrs. Drake's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Porter and son of Circleville.

Clarence Barker of Wilmington was a supper guest Sunday evening of Paul Donohoe. Later in the evening they visited with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Donohoe of Columbus.

Miss Leah Binns and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Binns were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Binns and son Tommy of Chillicothe.

Corporal Russell Henry of Grenada, Miss., and Mrs. Henry of Columbus and Mrs. Robert Link of Washington, C. H. were dinner guests Thursday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Evans and son Harley. Additional evening guests were Mr. and Mrs. Galen Kirkpatrick of New Holland and Mr. and Mrs. Burke Kearney of Washington, C. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ater and Miss Mabel Ater were Monday business visitors in Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Willis of Chillicothe were Sunday dinner guests of Ross Willis.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Skinner and daughter, Betty Lou, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stephenson and family of Bloomingburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drake and daughter, Marilyn, and sons, Dean and Joe, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Eckle of near Bloomingburg.

Mrs. Will Donohoe is staying at the home of her son, George Donohoe and family. Other Sunday callers at the Donohoe home were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barker and daughter of Washington, C. H.; Clarence Barker of Wilmington; Billy Leonard Schleich of Williamsport; Miss Ino and Pete Barclay of Madison Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Donohoe and son, Corwin.

The P-T-A. meeting has been postponed until next Tuesday evening, November 23, at 8:15 p. m.

Marine Once Taught Mikado How to Play Poker--For a "Fee"

By Central Press

CHARLESTON, S. C.—A bushy-browed Marine sergeant major of 26 years' service circa the Halls of Montezuma and the Shores of Tripoli—a tough-and-ready fighting man who can sport across his blouse nine medals and four extra bars, including the highest decoration of the Chinese Army—reared back in his chair in the Charleston Navy Yard Marine barracks today and opined that of all the distinctions he'd seen the oddest by far was that time back in Tokyo when the "holy" emperor of Japan bestowed the Order of the Rising Sun on the American Marine officer—for teaching His Nibs to play poker.

The raconteur was Sgt. Major George Nelson, who signed up with the Devil Dogs back in 1917, and whose subsequent career has taken him to such points as San Domingo, Haiti, Cuba, Nicaragua and China. He was in Nicaragua when the Marines kept the bandits out of the ballot boxes for the first free election back in the '20s.

Most Cherished Medal He was in Shanghai's Settlement in 1932, when 1200 Marines growled at 50,000 Japs and gave the latter 12 hours to get the heck out of the international settlement.

He has had medals hung on him all along the way, and medals are pretty old stuff to him now. But he still gets a kick out of telling about the Order of the Rising Sun—and here's how it came about.

"You see, this officer—I won't give you his name to print, because he's dead now and it might embarrass his widow—anyway, his officer was serving a tour as attache in Tokyo, and somehow this emperor took a shine to him.

"It wasn't Hirohito—it was some other guy—Hiro's daddy, or, maybe, his granddaddy. Anyway, His Nibs was an admirer of western culture, and he called in the colonel pretty often to question him about American ways, and learn all he could about how we act in this country. Which was pretty big stuff for the colonel, because the Jap emperor is something 'holy' over there, you know—and a mere mortal man wasn't supposed to look at him."

RAID PRACTICES END EXCEPT ON ORDER OF ARMY

Ralph H. Stone, state director of Civilian Defense, informed local Civilian Defense units throughout the state Wednesday that unannounced air raid and blackout practices will be held in the future only when ordered by the army.

In a message to Civilian Defense leaders, Stone said there will be frequent mobilizations, drills and exercises for Ohio's 600,000 Civilian Defense volunteers, but added that the general public and industry will not be involved. Nevertheless, Stone declared that as long as the war continues there is no positive assurance that this country will never be bombed. The danger has lessened greatly, Stone conceded, but added "we dare not be caught napping."

ROOKIES GET A BREAK PHILADELPHIA — The army doesn't seem the same for hard-boiled top kicks these days, especially with the latest innovation—curing homesickness in rookie soldiers. Colonel D. N. Hausman, commandant of the Philadelphia ordnance district, announced recently that the new plan is in effect at several ordnance replacement training centers. The idea is to explain the psychology of homesickness, army regimentation and why soldiers resent discipline.

SIGN MIGHT HELP WITH SECOND ARMY ON MANEUVERS. Somewhere in Tennessee—a farmer near Murfreesboro doesn't know why his chickens cross the road, but he knows they always do whenever an army convoy comes by. His cure for the problem is a sign "Drive slow. Chickens in Drive-way."

TELLS STORY—Sergt. Major George Nelson, above, relates strange tale of how clever colonel won $50,000 and Japs' No. 1 medal.

So it seems that in the course of their conversations, the colonel told the emperor something like this:

Completing the Education "I've taught you a lot of our American customs, but there's one thing without which no Occidental education is complete: It is a game A game of kings, because it requires money to play, and high intelligence, too."

So the emperor was all ears, according to the sarge, and nothing would do him but that the colonel should instruct him in the mysteries of this ancient and honorable game.

"Well," said Sgt. Major Nelson, "the colonel stayed there 12 years in all, spending all the time he could depleting the imperial wallet in the manner of a true Yank."

"He not only took His Nibs over the jumps to the tune of some $50,000, but he made the old guy like it—and that's what I call diplomacy plus."

And that's how the colonel got the Order of the Rising Sun.

He has had medals hung on him all along the way, and medals are pretty old stuff to him now. But he still gets a kick out of telling about the Order of the Rising Sun—and here's how it came about:

"You see, this officer—I won't give you his name to print, because he's dead now and it might embarrass his widow—anyway this officer was serving a tour as attache in Tokyo, and somehow this emperor took a shine to him.

"It wasn't Hirohito—it was some other guy—Hiro's daddy, or, maybe, his granddaddy. Anyway, His Nibs was an admirer of western culture, and he called in the colonel pretty often to question him about American ways, and learn all he could about how we act in this country. Which was pretty big stuff for the colonel, because the Jap emperor is something 'holy' over there, you know—and a mere mortal man wasn't supposed to look at him.

RAID PRACTICES END EXCEPT ON ORDER OF ARMY

PHILADELPHIA — The army doesn't seem the same for hard-boiled top kicks these days, especially with the latest innovation—curing homesickness in rookie soldiers. Colonel D. N. Hausman, commandant of the Philadelphia ordnance district, announced recently that the new plan is in effect at several ordnance replacement training centers. The idea is to explain the psychology of homesickness, army regimentation and why soldiers resent discipline.

SIGN MIGHT HELP
WITH SECOND ARMY ON MANEUVERS, Somewhere in Tennessee—A farmer near Murfreesboro doesn't know why his chickens cross the road, but he knows they always do whenever an army convoy comes by. His cure for the problem is a sign "Drive slow. Chickens in Drive-way."

TELLS STORY—Sergt. Major George Nelson, above, relates strange tale of how clever colonel won $50,000 and Japs' No. 1 medal.

So it seems that in the course of their conversations, the colonel told the emperor something like this:

Completing the Education
"I've taught you a lot of our American customs, but there's one thing without which no Occidental education is complete: It is a game. A game of kings, because it requires money to play, and high intelligence, too."

So the emperor was all ears, according to the sarge, and nothing would do him but that the colonel should instruct him in the mysteries of this ancient and honorable game.

"Well," said Sergt. Major Nelson, "the colonel stayed there 12 years in all, spending all the time he could depleting the imperial wallet in the manner of a true Yank.

"He not only took His Nibs over the jumps to the tune of some $50,000, but he made the old guy like it—and that's what I call diplomacy plus."

And that's how the colonel got the Order of the Rising Sun.

MUTUAL AID

THE British have a good name for the process we call "lease-lend." They call it "Mutual Aid." That is what it is. Great Britain has even now given almost as much in proportion to her own wealth as we in proportion to ours. Among other items, she furnishes food, shelter and other things to our soldiers abroad, no small affair.

Many matters of mutual assistance cannot be figured in terms of money.

Britain's dogged resistance in that terrible Winter of 1940-1 is one. Without it, where would the United States of America be—all of the Americas? Russia's slaying of thousands of Germans, her wearing down of great German armies—can that be measured in money? What about China's resistance for five long years? America does what she can. Britain, China, Russia, and other nations give and do according to their powers.
Working together, they will win. But none of them should let Hitler's last desperate attempts through propaganda weaving in and around the Allied nations get them down.

It would be well for Americans of today to keep firmly in mind that little interchange between two of the Founding Fathers.

"Gentlemen," one said as he signed the Declaration, "we must all hang together."
"Yes," replied another. "If we don't,
we shall all hang separately!"

RECKLESS LABOR

COLLECTIVE bargaining is here to stay.
Its principles are recognized as just by most Americans. But also just is the principle that along with rights go responsibilities. Union labor must recognize its responsibility as a necessary part of society. Its heads must recognize the rights of its members to fair accounting and fair dealing throughout.

The union labor which disregards its responsibilities towards its own members, towards its communities and its nation, is sowing the wind. In time of war some things go by the board which would not be allowed in peace. Peace is coming, and a tightening of all civilian situations which have become lax in war. No matter which party wins the 1944 presidential election or the local ones, arrogant union labor is going to be brought up short.

If it is wise, labor will clean its house and sharpen its sense of duty before it is too late. He who sows the wind will reap the whirlwind.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

SENATORS OBJECT

WASHINGTON — Republican Senator
William Langer of North Dakota and Democratic Representative John H. Tolan of California are still plugging for their proposal to convert the spacious underground senate garage into sleeping quarters for servicemen arriving at nearby Union station.

However, it looks as though many of the servicemen will continue bunking on benches in the crowded railroad station. So far, Langer and Tolan have received negligible support for their idea, especially from senators, who do not relish giving up their steam-heated parking places in the garage.
The legislators are smart enough not to air their views publicly, but there has been a lot of undercover sniping at the Langer-Tolan scheme by the powers-that-be in Capitol Hill.

Recently, Senator Francis Maloney of Connecticut requested the views of Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, chairman of the potent rules committee. The multi-millionaire Virginia apple grower replied that the rules committee "has nothing whatever to do" with the garage.

"My own personal judgment," continues Senator Byrd, "is that it would be costly to make this garage suitable for living quarters and that it should only be done as a last resort. I should think there are other buildings available which could be utilized at less expense."

NOTE: Actually, it would cost very little to convert the garage into sleeping quarters, chiefly the matter of providing cots, of which the army has thousands. The hundreds of servicemen streaming through Union station every day now must depend on the limited
accommodations of the nearby United Nations Service Center—formerly the Capitol Park hotel—at rates ranging from $1 (dormitory) to $3 a night.

MARSHALL'S MEMORY

For a long time, Jim Farley and Mrs.
Henry Wallace were supposed to have the best memories around Washington. But they have a real rival in the chief of staff, General Marshall.

Returning from a warfront town, Marshall held a press conference. Twenty-one newsmen were present. Marshall said he would answer one question from each newsmen.

He turned to the man nearest him on the right and said, "All right, what's yours?"

The question proved to be rather elaborate.
"I will answer that in a minute," said
Marshall. "But let's go ahead. What's yours?"

And before answering any questions, he went the rounds of 21 men and got their 21 questions. Then he proceeded to answer the questions one by one.

Not only did he remember the question which each of the twenty-one had asked, but he remembered who asked it. Pointing to each man, he said, "Now your question was . . ." And then he named it and proceeded to answer it.

This was more than a feat of memory. It gave order and body to the answers, and eliminated the confusion of most press conferences.

Wartime Strains React on Civilians

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE OLD phrase, shell shock, has mostly gone out of fashion in this war, but the condition which it represented—a nervous system in collapse from the strain of gun fire, battle and war scenes still exists among the soldiers of our armies.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Some men just naturally like war. And some are just naturally not born soldiers. I get a good many letters from soldiers—medical officers, old friends, nephews, etc., and I am getting so I can read between the lines and tell the ones who are good soldiers and the ones who are not. They all beef, but behind the beefing you see that some are having a wonderful time.

What we don't always remember is that the civilian stay-at-home's nervous system is under a strain as well as the soldier's under combat duty. And the civilians are divided just the way the soldiers are. Some of them thrive on the excitement of war news. They take advantage of the extra ways to make money. They always have a cheerful view of the chances a relative in a war zone has of coming through.

Results of War Worry
Others don't like anything about war. The news makes them ill—their digestion gets upset. They worry their heads off about themselves, their relatives, their country, their business and the future.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, and Miss Margaret Hunsicker, county health nurse, were in Columbus attending a state meeting of health commissioners and nurses.

Mrs. Herbert White of Columbus, a native of Denmark, was guest speaker at the 12th anniversary meeting of Pickaway Plains chapter, D. A. R., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, West Union street.

William Herbert Plum, 65, president of the Ashville Citizens bank, a prominent cattle dealer and leader in the Lutheran church, died at his home in Ashville after a long illness.

10 YEARS AGO

A committee of 10 prominent Ohio bankers to draft an NRA banking code for Ohio was named by Clark Will, president of the Ohio Bankers' association.

Pickaway county was one of 50 Ohio counties that had been designated as areas in which loans of 45 cents per bushel on warehouse corn were to be made by the Commodity Credit corporation.

W. M. McAbee, Pickaway county relief commissioner, appointed by the county commissioners, announced that he would begin distribution of 4,000 pounds of government pork, sent through the State Relief Commission.

25 YEARS AGO

Miss Alice Eaton visited her sister, Miss Katherine Eaton, at Camp Sherman base hospital where she was ill of measles and tonsillitis.

The old Fourth Ohio regiment, instead of returning home, was to become part of the army of occupation in Germany.

Thieves entered the garage of Dr. G. G. Leist, North Court street, took his Ford roadster and left it stripped of tires, extra inner tubes, batteries and robes on North Pickaway street, near the corporation line.

Tomorrow is a Lovely Word

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

Roommates and cousins, BETH KINNAN, serious-minded and trusting, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tense atmosphere accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with IM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by ENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but really and interesting—and also married.

YESTERDAY: Beth gets more and more worried about Andrea's intention of staying in the capital and tries to think of some way to persuade her to leave.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

BETH'S ROOM in the boarding house was on the third floor, and when she took herself home that Tuesday night, she went up the two flights of stairs with heavy feet and a heavier heart. Telling herself that she loved Andrea and that they'd have lots of their old good times together (as they did before it had been Andrea and Jim) hadn't helped very much, because reason triumphed.

She opened the door to her room, saying, "Hi!"

She was greeted with silence. The room was neat as a pin. There were three yellow chrysanthemums and a cluster of shining russet leaves in a low bowl on the dressing table, which was bare of Andrea's things that had made a litter from the moment of her arrival.

Beth took a deep, ecstatic breath. Andrea was gone. No matter that she hadn't left a note. It would be like Andrea to write her when she got home.

Beth took off her coat and hat and dress and put them away in the closet where Andrea's suit and three dresses had hung, and got her sponge bag from the shelf. She slipped on her housecoat and went down the hall to the bathroom.

Luxuriating in her bath, enjoying her peace of mind, and promising herself to make up to Andrea some day, she realized she'd have to hurry and dress if she were to get to dinner before it was too late to be served in the dining room. She had no date for that night, but it was enough for her to look forward to a good book and an early sleep. She would sleep more peacefully this night, knowing she'd just snatched back her new-found peace.

She opened her bedroom door. Andrea was sitting on the bed, wearing a brown dress. There was a huge pom-pom pinned to her shoulder.

"How'd you like the flowers, Beth? They're from me to you with love."

Beth sat down, all words running out with her breath.

But Andrea wasn't waiting for words. I've a job," she announced.

Argentina Calling Back
Its Gold Deposited Here

South American Republic
Fears Freezing of Funds

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Differences of opinion among government officials have delayed up to now the freezing of Argentine funds held on deposit in the United States. And so far as can be ascertained, there is no immediate prospect that an agreement will be reached on this question soon.

The result is that what happened in the case of Germany and some other countries is happening in the case of Argentina. That is, if the U. S. ever gets around to locking the stable door, it probably will be after the horse is stolen.

The Argentine government for some time now has been withdrawing approximately 200 million dollars in gold which the Central Bank of the Argentine has had on deposit in this country. This is extraordinary because of high war risk insurance rates in shipping gold, but the government of the South American nation apparently is afraid that the United States might finally make up its mind to freeze all Argentine deposits in this country.

A move in that direction was made last week when the assets of two of the largest banks of the Argentine were frozen here. The official American reason was that the banks were aiding the Nazis. There has been no evidence of an intention, however, to grab all the Argentine funds in this country.

But the Buenos Aires boys would rather have their gold back home than risk having to dicker with Uncle Sam to get it. We incidentally, are losing a trump card as the funds move out.

If we had the Argentine dough, the dictator government down south would be in poorer position to thumb its nose at us. Government officials interested in economic warfare have been insisting on a freeze order, but the state department is playing cautiously. The department thinks the people of the South American republic are friendly and doesn't want to turn them against the United States by harsh economic measures.

● THERE IS GROWING INDICATION that the Germans are facing an increasingly critical shortage of high proof gasoline and fine lubricating oils for airplanes and that this will hamper the Nazi war effort more and more.

One reason for the shortage is said to be the devastating American bombing raid on the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania which soon can expect to receive an additional plastering from American and British planes based in southern Italy.

The German position may become even more critical if Bulgaria and Rumania are forced out of the war by the advancing Russian hordes. There have been growing signs, too, that these nations are willing to follow Italy's example as soon as possible.

One reason for the Russian success in winter offensives has been that German synthetic lubricants are almost useless in sub-zero temperatures whereas the Soviets have been able to operate equipment in the worst possible weather.

● APROPOS FEED FOR LIVESTOCK, Sen. George Aiken, Vermont Republican, has warned that the feed industry is profiteering off farmers by combining a little barley with corn meal and selling it at $45 to $60 a ton as mixed feed in New England.

OPA has set no control over mixed feed and the result is that by adding a little different grain to one type of feed or another, the price of the combination is more than doubled over the price of any component part.

Although he generally is "agin" government control of such things, Aiken believes Uncle Sam ought to buy up the grain crops in order to improve distribution of grain supplies and to keep prices out of the profiteering brackets.

Wartime Strains React on Civilians

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE OLD phrase, shell shock, has mostly gone out of fashion in this war, but the condition which it represented—of a nervous system in collapse from the strain of gun fire, battle and war scenes still exists among the soldiers of our armies.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Some men just naturally like war. And some are just naturally not born soldiers. I get a good many letters from soldiers—medical officers, old friends, nephews, etc., and I am getting so I can read between the lines and tell the ones that are good soldiers and the ones who are not. They all beef, but behind the beefing you see that some are having a wonderful time.

What we don't always remember is that the civilian stay-at-home's nervous system is under a strain as well as the soldier's under combat duty. And the civilians are divided just the way the soldiers are. Some of them thrive on the excitement of war news. They take advantage of the extra ways to make money. They always have a cheerful view of the chances a relative in a war zone has of coming through.

Results of War Worry
Others don't like anything about war. The news makes them ill—their digestion gets upset. They worry their heads off about themselves, their relatives, their country, their business and the future.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, and Miss Margaret Hunsicker, county health nurse, were in Columbus attending a state meeting of health commissioners and nurses.

Mrs. Herbert White of Columbus, a native of Denmark, was guest speaker at the 12th anniversary meeting of Pickaway Plains chapter, D. A. R., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, West Union street.

William Herbert Plum, 65, president of the Ashville Citizens bank, a prominent cattle dealer and leader in the Lutheran church, died at his home in Ashville after a long illness.

10 YEARS AGO

A committee of 10 prominent Ohio bankers to draft an NRA banking code for Ohio was named by Clark Will, president of the Ohio Bankers' association.

Pickaway county was one of 50 Ohio counties that had been designated as areas in which loans of 45 cents per bushel on warehouse corn were to be made by the Commodity Credit corporation.

W. M. McAbee, Pickaway county relief commissioner, appointed by the county commissioners, announced that he would begin distribution of 4,000 pounds of government pork, sent through the State Relief Commission.

25 YEARS AGO

Miss Alice Eaton visited her sister, Miss Katherine Eaton, at Camp Sherman base hospital where she was ill of measles and tonsillitis.

The old Fourth Ohio regiment, instead of returning home, was to become part of the army of occupation in Germany.

Thieves entered the garage of Dr. G. G. Leist, North Court street, took his Ford roadster and left it stripped of tires, extra inner tubes, batteries and robes on North Pickaway street, near the corporation line.

Roommates and cousins. "You've a job?" Beth echoed. "Congratulations! Am I a go-getter, or am I?"

"You certainly are," Beth said bitterly. "Are you secretary to the president, or Mrs. Roosevelt?" "All in good time," Andrea said blithely. "Although I'd rather be secretary to an unmarried man. A girl gets farther that way."

"You seem to be doing all right. Is it a secret?"

Andrea laughed and said no. "I'm working in a store. Or I will be as of tomorrow. Look, Beth, it's very exciting. I was wandering around the stores, looking at things, and I saw some grand plans in one of those specialty shops—

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
BETH'S ROOM in the boarding house was on the third floor, and when she took herself home that Tuesday night, she went up the two flights of stairs with heavy feet and a heavier heart. Telling herself that she loved Andrea and that they'd have lots of their old good times together (as they did before she had been Andrea and Jim) hadn't helped very much, because reason triumphed.

She opened the door to her room, saying, "Hi!" She was greeted with silence. The room was neat as a pin. There were three yellow chrysanthemums and a cluster of shining russet leaves in a low bowl on the dressing table, which was bare of Andrea's things that had made a litter from the moment of her arrival.

Beth took a deep, ecstatic breath. Andrea was gone. No matter that she hadn't left a note. It would be like Andrea to write her when she got home.

Beth took off her coat and hat and dress and put them away in the closet where Andrea's suit and three dresses had hung, and got her sponge bag from the shelf. She slipped on her housecoat and went down the hall to the bathroom.

Luxuriating in her bath, enjoying her peace of mind, and promising herself to make up to Andy some day, she realized she'd have to hurry and dress if she were to get to dinner before it was too late to be served in the dining room.

She had no date for that night, but it was enough for her to look forward to a good book and an early sleep. She would sleep more peacefully this night, knowing she'd just snatched back her new-found peace.

She opened her bedroom door. Andrea was sitting on the bed, wearing a brown dress. There was a huge pom-pom pinned to her shoulder.

"How'd you like the flowers, Beth? They're from me to you with love."

Beth sat down, all words running out with her breath.

But Andrea wasn't waiting for words. I've a job," she announced.

Andrea said surprisingly, "but I have to keep in practice. I'll get the boys for you."

Beth wanted to cry out, "Go and get all the boys you want for yourself, but give Jim back to me."

She knew how impossible that was.

The next morning, Beth was late at the office because Andrea had borrowed her alarm clock and then had forgotten to stop in and see if Beth was awake. So Beth bought another clock for herself and told Andrea that night, when she was bathing Andrea's tired feet, that she could have the other.

Andrea's feet were just as tired Thursday night, but she was able to go to the movies with Harry Cole, and to join Beth and Vernon on Friday night when they planned to take one of their long walks.

Beth loved walks with Vernon which began in the twilight. They walked miles, finding entertainment in things they eyes fell upon, talking about books they'd read, and the news in the papers, the accelerating atmosphere of Washington, the shadow of things to come. Usually they stopped in somewhere and got a small supper, or had cigarettes over coffee, and talked about Beth's efforts to get Vernon into his office.

The walk with Andrea was short-lived. Andrea was not interested in news events, and her feet were tired. They dropped into a movie, and later went straight home.

Saturday, Andrea said she was going straight from the store at 5 o'clock to the station. She was joining Jim for the week-end. It was only a two-hour train trip. She'd be back Sunday night.

But she was not back on Sunday night. Beth didn't see her until Monday night at dinner. Andrea was flushed and gay, but for once said she was tired and thought she'd turn in early, having nothing more to say to Beth, other than to ask when she could have some films developed.

Beth asked her about the pictures a few days after and Andrea got them out of her handbag and gave them to her.

Jim's face leaped at Beth from the glossy paper. Jim, with his radiant, remembered smile. Jim, casual, Jim's height standing at Andrea's shoulder. It was like seeing him in person.

Beth said, "He hasn't changed much, has he?"

"How do you like the pictures of me, Beth?" Andrea asked carefully.

"You always take a good picture, Andy."

"Notice anything particular about these?" Andrea asked with an odd note in her voice.

Beth looked again and shook her head. "With that corsage on, you look like a bride."

Andrea laughed uncertainly, "Oh, THAT!" she exclaimed.

"Then what did you mean by 'anything particular'?"

"Nothing," Andrea said, relief rather than anxiety in her voice. (To Be Continued)

Argentina Calling Back Its Gold Deposited Here South American Republic Fears Freezing of Funds

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Differences of opinion among government officials have delayed up to now the freezing of Argentine funds held on deposit in the United States. And so far as can be ascertained, there is no immediate prospect that an agreement will be reached on this question soon.

The result is that what happened in the case of Germany and some other countries is happening in the case of Argentina. That is, if the U. S. ever gets around to locking the stable door, it probably will be after the horse is stolen.

The Argentine government for some time now has been withdrawing approximately 200 million dollars in gold which the Central Bank of the Argentine has had on deposit in this country. This is extraordinary because of high war risk insurance rates in shipping gold, but the government of the South American nation apparently is afraid that the United States might finally make up its mind to freeze all Argentine deposits in this country.

A move in that direction was made last week when the assets of two of the largest banks of the Argentine were frozen here. The official American reason was that the banks were aiding the Nazis. There has been no evidence of an intention, however, to grab all the Argentine funds in this country.

But the Buenos Aires boys would rather have their gold back home than risk having it dicker with Uncle Sam to get it. We incidentally, are losing a trump card as the funds move out.

If we had the Argentine dough, the dictator government down south would be in poorer position to thumb its nose at us. Government officials interested in economic warfare have been insisting on a freeze order, but the state department is playing cautiously. The department thinks the people of the South American republic are friendly and doesn't want to turn them against the United States by harsh economic measures.

● THERE IS GROWING INDICATION that the Germans are facing an increasingly critical shortage of high proof gasoline and fine lubricating oils for airplanes and that this will hamper the Nazi war effort more and more.

One reason for the shortage is said to be the devastating American bombing raid on the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania which soon can expect to receive an additional plastering from American and British planes based in southern Italy.

The German position may become even more critical if Bulgaria and Rumania are forced out of the war by the advancing Russian hordes. There have been growing signs, too, that these nations are willing to follow Italy's example as soon as possible.

One reason for the Russian success in winter offensives has been that German synthetic lubricants are almost useless in sub-zero temperatures whereas the Soviets have been able to operate equipment in the worst possible weather.

● APROPOS FEED FOR LIVESTOCK, Sen. George Aiken, Vermont Republican, has warned that the feed industry is profiteering off farmers by combining a little barley with corn meal and selling it at $45 to $60 a ton as mixed feed in New England.

OPA has set no control over mixed feed and the result is that by adding a little different grain to one type of feed or another, the price of the combination is more than doubled over the price of any component part.

Although he generally is "agin" government control of such things, Aiken believes Uncle Sam ought to buy up the grain crops in order to improve distribution of grain supplies and to keep prices out of the profiteering brackets.

Judge Reynolds Speaks At DAR Celebration

Hunsicker Home Scene of Fine Program

More than 75 members and guests of the Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, gathered Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker of West Union street or one of the finest anniversary meetings since Mrs. Hunsicker organized the chapter 17 years ago. Judge Reynolds, of Columbus, judge of the common pleas court of Franklin county, as guest speaker held the close attention of the group, discussing historical backgrounds of men and times with reference to the present world struggle to insure liberty and peace.

Well versed in Ohio history and that of the United States, Judge Reynolds as a member of an organization similar to the D. A. R., discussed the patriotic aims of this national group and its commendable work in preserving a clear picture of pioneers in this country through the recording of family documents and treasured bits of personal information. Stating that our government was founded on three fundamentals, "the courage of men," "their sense of duty" and "their sense of honor in action," Judge Reynolds developed from these premises a patriotic talk that deeply moved his audience. First he told of the courage our forefathers needed to declare that "all men are created free and equal" and to back this statement up with their lives. He then showed our obligation to them or this firm principle on which our government is based. He made clear that we of necessity must make the fight for freedom and public welfare as we review the history of these men and know their sense of duty to their government. He then reviewed their history and exploits, showing them to have been faithful to the trust placed in them and to have been willing to undergo supreme sacrifice to uphold the honor of their country. He developed the thought that the country is based on the courage, the sense of duty and the actions of the common man and only as we live up to the traditions and vision of our ancestors can we hope to hold what they so dearly instituted.

The outstanding evening meeting was preceded by an excellent buffet dinner, Mrs. Hunsicker being assisted in serving the cooperative meal by the hostesses of the month, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker, Mrs. Edna Newhouse, Miss Margaret Dunlap, Mrs. Harry McGhee, Mrs. George Hamman Jr., Mrs. Lee Luller, Mrs. Florence Duveck of the Williamsport community and Mrs. Russell McDill of Frankfort. Mrs. Charles H. May, chapter regent, opened the meeting in regular form and mentioned Mrs. Hunsicker for her gracious hospitality to the society through the long series of anniversary sessions. Mrs. May was assisted in the ritualistic work by Miss Clara Littleton, chaplain, and Mrs. R. R. Bales, registrar, who led the group in the Salute to the Flag.

During the brief business period, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker suggested chapter indorsement of Mrs. James E. Patton, state vice regent, for state regent. Mrs. Patton is a sister of Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker and a former resident of this city. Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker displayed a Buddy Bag such as the chapter has been making to send to boys in service, and told of a recent gift of 25 bags to Fletcher General hospital at Cambridge in addition to those sent overseas and to men in this country.

Mrs. H. S. Lewis appealed for donations for the Ellis Island work and asked for them to be made before December 1. The chapter has received five new members, Miss Benadine Yates of North Scioto street; Mrs. Joseph Peters, Walnut township; Mrs. Kermit Dountz, Commercial Point; Mrs. Robert Workman and Mrs. Oliver Hosterman of Columbus, the two daughters of chapter regent.

and Charles Hines of Ashville; Chester Noecker of Lockbourne; Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Riegel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter, Colin Dill and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cromley of Amanda.

A rising vote of thanks was given the degree team for its splendid work.

Wilbert Riegel was in the chair for the business hour and presented Roger Bowers with a beautiful gold pin as an honor for having secured 10 new members for the grange. The pin was a gift from the state grange.

An interesting motion picture on "The Farm Home" was presented. The next regular meeting will be at the grange hall December 7. Officers were requested to meet Wednesday, December 1, in the grange hall at 7:30 p. m. to practice work in the last two degrees. Refreshments were served to 125 members and guests.

Furlough Dinner

Honoring Corporal and Mrs. John P. Carle, Mr. and Mrs. John Carle entertained at a furlough dinner recently at their home on East Union street. Corporal Carle is spending a 12-day furlough with his parents after having been stationed in Alaska for 18 months.

Present for the delightful occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Glad Willis and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rhoades and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Carle and family, Miss Anna Butt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Binkley and daughter, Rita Jane, Jack Lake, Thomas Walker, Miss Joan Cook and Mrs. Margaret Cook of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. William Schleich, Mr. and Mrs. George Carle, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bidwell and Frank Carle of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Melwagen, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Montgomery, Mrs. Nora Redman, John Shelton and Ed Smith of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hechinger of Chillicothe and Mr. and Mrs. P. SCIOTO SCHOOL NEWS

Annual P-T. A. card party will be held Saturday night, November 20, at the Scioto school auditorium, at 8:30 p. m. Games will be provided for the children and refreshments will be served later in the evening. The card games will consist of bridge and euchre.

Eight individual typing tables were purchased by the Board of Education last week. The students of the typing classes are very proud of them. They give each pupil more room and better vision. Class activity is improved since all can now face in the same direction.

The Junior class has begun making preparations for their class play which is scheduled to be given in February. The name of the play that was chosen to be given is "Your Face is Familiar." The Prince of Peace Declaration contest was held Sunday night, at the Methodist church in Commercial Point. Students participating were Betty Graham, Norma Graham, and Pearlina Williams. Betty Graham won first place and was awarded a bronze medal. The name of her Declaration was "The Price of Peace."

The Sophomore class under the direction of A. A. White presented a very interesting Armistice Day program, Wednesday. The program consisted of songs by members of the class and a military pageant. Reverend Flowers, pastor of the Methodist church of Commercial Point, led the students in prayer. Interesting talks were given by Vadan Couch, assistant manager of the Ralston Purina company of Circleville, and George D. McDowell, superintendent of the Pickaway county schools. School was dismissed November 11 for Armistice Day. This measure was taken because of the fact that the state will not permit a day of school formerly missed to be made up on a legal holiday.

The P-T. A. meeting for the month of November was held Wednesday, November 10. After the business meeting two programs were given. The Sophomore class again presented their special Armistice Day program that was formerly given in assembly, and the 4-H Club presented their program for the year.

Judge Reynolds Speaks At DAR Celebration

Hunsicker Home
Scene of Fine Program

More than 75 members and guests of the Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, gathered Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker of West Union street for one of the finest anniversary meetings since Mrs. Hunsicker organized the chapter 17 years ago.

Judge F. Reynolds, of Columbus, judge of the common pleas court of Franklin county, as guest speaker, held the close attention of the group, discussing historical backgrounds of men and times with reference to the present world struggle to insure liberty and peace.

Well versed in Ohio history and that of the United States, Judge Reynolds as a member of an organization similar to the D. A. R., discussed the patriotic aims of this national group and its commendable work in preserving a clear picture of pioneers in this country through the recording of family documents and treasured bits of personal information.

Saying that our government was founded on three fundamentals, "the courage of men," "their sense of duty" and "their sense of honor in action," Judge Reynolds developed from these premises a patriotic talk that deeply moved his audience. First he told of the courage our forefathers needed to declare that "all men are created free and equal" and to back this statement up with their lives. He then showed our obligation to them for this firm principle on which our government is based. He made clear that we of necessity must make the fight for freedom and public welfare as we review the history of these men and know their sense of duty to their government. He then reviewed their history and exploits, showing them to have been faithful to the trust placed in them and to have been willing to undergo supreme sacrifice to uphold the honor of their country. He developed the thought that the country is based on the courage, the sense of duty and the actions of the common man and only as we live up to the traditions and vision of our ancestors can we hope to hold what they so dearly instituted.

The outstanding evening meeting was preceded by an excellent buffet dinner. Mrs. Hunsicker being assisted in serving the cooperative meal by the hostesses of the month, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker, Mrs. Edna Newhouse, Miss Margaret Dunlap, Mrs. Harry McGhee, Mrs. George Hamman Jr., Mrs. Lee Luller, Mrs. Florence Duveneck of the Williamsport community and Mrs. Russell McDill of Frankfort.

Mrs. Charles H. May, chapter regent, opened the meeting in regular form and mentioned Mrs. Hunsicker for her gracious hospitality to the society through the long series of anniversary sessions. Mrs. May was assisted in the ritualistic work by Miss Clara Littleton, chaplain, and Mrs. R. R. Bales, registrar, who led the group in the salute to the flag.

During the brief business period, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker suggested chapter indorsement of Mrs. James E. Patton, state vice regent, for state regent. Mrs. Patton is a sister of Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker and a former resident of this city.

Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker displayed a Buddy Bag such as the chapter has been making to send to boys in service, and told of a recent gift of 25 bags to Fletcher General hospital at Cambridge in addition to those sent overseas and to men in this country.

Mrs. H. S. Lewis appealed for donations for the Ellis Island work and asked for them to be made before December 1.

The chapter has received five new members, Miss Benadine Yates of North Scioto street; Mrs. Joseph Peters, Walnut township; Mrs. Kermit Dountz, Commercial Point; Mrs. Robert Workman and Mrs. Oliver Hosterman of Columbus, the two daughters of chapter regent.

For a Bonnie Lassie

Colorful but not easily soiled; warm but not bulky; this warm costume looks like a "best" wardrobe number while being perfectly practical for school day wear.

NO REASON why two bonnie lassies shouldn't have this Glengarry bonnet with matching tartan greatcoat. Twins or little and bigger sister would look lovely dressed alike in this outfit.

The fabric is wool, of course, the plaid one which combines dark green with lighter blue and scarlet. The cap with its two feathers has grosgrain ribbon band and streamers. The slim, well-fitted leggings are dark green wool.

and Charles Hines of Ashville; Chester Noecker of Lockbourne; Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Riegel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter, Colin Dill and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cromley of Amanda.

A rising vote of thanks was given the degree team for its splendid work.

Wilbert Riegel was in the chair for the business hour and presented Roger Bowers with a beautiful gold pin as an honor for having secured 10 new members for the grange. The pin was a gift from the state grange.

An interesting motion picture on "The Farm Home" was presented.

The next regular meeting will be at the grange hall December 7. Officers were requested to meet Wednesday, December 1, in the grange hall at 7:30 p. m. to practice work in the last two degrees.

Refreshments were served to 125 members and guests.

Friday, November 26

At our farm, one-half mile south of New Holland, Ohio, the following livestock and hog-lot equipment:

50 HAMPSHIRE PURE BRED GILTS

We will offer 50 bred gilts, sired by our King Roller Boar No. 281309—a splendid son of Century Hi Roller. The dams of these gilts carry the blood of the best Hampshire families including Smooth Clan, High Score and Promoter. Fourteen of these gilts will be bred to a young No Score boar recently purchased from Gilbert Gardner and the balance to our senior yearling Clan Fashion boar. The sires and dams will be on exhibition.

25-DAIRY HEIFERS—25

15 pure bred Holstein heifers and 10 heifers of mixed breeds. Most of these heifers are bred — some are Springers. Here is a good opportunity to get next year's valuable cow. They are sure to make money for their new owners.

140-SHEEP—140

Having discontinued the operation of a grazing farm in southern Ohio, we will sell the 140 good western ewes from that farm. These two, three and four year old ewes are bred to registered Shropshire and Southdown bucks. We will also sell two of the four bucks used on these ewes.

SEAHAWK HOPES AGAINST IRISH BELIEVED GONE

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—This department herewith pleads guilty to having suggested that Notre Dame would not run over Army and that the New York Giants would make a battle of it with the Chicago Bears, so I think it might be prudent to dismiss entirely my motion that the Iowa Seahawks have even a remote chance with Notre Dame this Saturday. After a few years of watching supposed invincibles get whammed on the lug and cut down at times when they seem to have everything under control you get to expecting the worst and then wonder how you ever missed foreseeing it when finally it happened.

This Notre Dame team is really great. Had Coach Frank Leahy been in the mood I think he might have run up a score on Army, but, instead, he seemed to have his team under wraps insofar as his full routine of plays was concerned and he won the ball game with no great versatility in his attack. He didn't need it.

Still Army is a better ball club than it showed itself to be in that 26 to 0 defeat.

Anyhow, one of the smallest arguments going on at this time is the way they are making this Notre Dame team the greatest in history. In the first place you can't prove it, and in the second place the opposing schedule is not as tough, week-after-week, as it might be in normal times.

I'm pretty sure of one thing—which also can't be proved—and that is there would be some fur flying off a number of pelts in large patches Saturday if the Seahawks had not, almost at the last minute, lost four starting players and four second stringers. That can't help but make a difference.

However, the Seahawk line looks as though it might be pretty stout from end to end, including as it does, End Perry Schwartz, Center Vince Bononis, and Guards Bernard McGarry and Nick Kerasiotis, all former professionals. Another pro on the team is Halfback Dick Todd.

It isn't likely that the Seahawks can overcome entirely the loss of eight men, although Notre Dame has done a better than fair job in filling the gap left by Angelo Bertelli. They had Johnny Lujack primed and have gone right on as though nothing had happened. Bertelli was only one man, however, not eight.

The Seahawks will open their Big

Many Buckeye Cagers Gone; Grate Expected To Star On New Crew

By Gil Karp

COLUMBUS, Nov. 17—With the 1943 gridiron season just about over the hill, attention is starting to swing to the 1943-44 basketball season.

Ohio's Big Ten representative, Ohio State university, will feature a youthful and inexperienced squad when the Bucks open their basketball campaign against Denison on December 11, at Columbus.

If loyal followers of State's athletic fortunes are looking for a successful basketball season to offset a rather gloomy gridiron year, the chances are they will be sorely disappointed. Every member of last season's cage contingent, with the exception of Jack Dugger, has either graduated or has been snatched away by the long arm of the man with the whiskers.

Gone are such standouts as John White, Captain Freddie Miller, Max Geowets, Dick Shriver and Gene Fekete. One of the outstanding players on the squad and a dominant factor in placing the Bucks in a fourth-place tie in the standings, Shriver is now stationed at Michigan with the Naval Pre-flight program and will probably be a member of the Wolverine team.

State's quest for Western Conference honors this season will rest on the shoulders of two freshmen, one transfer student with previous experience at little Kentucky State Teachers College and two sophomores who played on the Buck frosh squad last season.

Wells, Grate There
Jim Wells, former Lima Central star and a member of the Bucks' undefeated frosh five, will probably start the season as a forward. Along with Wells, Don Grate, Greenfield, O., is expected to hold down the other forward position. With one inch over six feet to his credit, Grate is an aggressive player and the Bucks' standout threat.

WOODY HERMAN

Woody Herman, rhythm-master currently featured at New York's Paramount Theatre, who according to a recent review "discovered that it is possible to play jazz without sounding like a boiler factory," will be the guest conductor of Barry Wood's "Million Dollar Band" Saturday over NBC at 9 p. m.

Popular music critics list many factors which make Herman stand out. All agree that his personality is the underlying basis. Also he is credited with being excellent in any and all forms of entertainment—whether it's radio, stage, night club, movie or recording.

Besides being an expert musician, Woody's unique arrangements have set new standards for such songs as "Blues in the Night," "This Time the Dream's on Me," "Frenesi," and "Somebody Loves Me." His recording of the first tune was what boosted him from "underrated" to first rank eminence.

DURANTE, MOORE

Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore venture into the wide open spaces and open a streamlined cattle ranch in their broadcast on Friday at 9 p. m., over WBNS. Aside from getting the little ones along, Garry will present another of his well known stories of little known people. Georgia Gibbs' solo is "Speak Low," and Roy Barry's orchestral highlight is "Love Isn't Born."

"HOUR OF CHARM"

Broadcasting from the stage of the Chicago Theatre, where they are playing a two-week engagement, Phil Spitalny and his "Hour of Charm" all-girl orchestra and choir offer a program of hit tunes adapted from the classics, on Sunday at 9 p. m., over WLW. Selections include "Tonight We Love," by Austin and Martin (from Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto), performed by the orchestra and choir; "Moon Love," by Andre Kostelanetz (from Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony), sung by the contralto Kathleen; "In an Eighteenth Century Drawing Room," by Raymond Scott (from Mozart's C Major Sonata for Piano), played by the orchestra; "My Reverie," by Larry Clinton (from Debussy's "Reverie") played by the violinist Evelyn; "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," by Carroll (from Chopin's "Fantasy Impromptu") sung by the choir; "I Look at Heaven," by Austin and Martin (from a Grieg Piano Concerto), played by the orchestra; and "The Things I Love," by Lew Harris (from Tchaikovsky's "Melody"), sung by the soprano

TONE, O'SULLIVAN

Franchot Tone and Maureen O'Sullivan enact the inspiring story of a heroic British non-com, when the "Screen Guild Players" present "The Immortal Sergeant," on Monday, November 22, at 9 p. m., over WBNS. The African desert is the setting for this chronicle of a small unit, isolated from the main body of the British army, and forced to struggle back through enemy-held desert to rejoin their comrades.

JANE FROMAN

In the absence of Nadine Conner, who will be filling an opera engagement in Philadelphia, Jane Froman, singing star of the Broadway musical, "Artists and Models," sings a hit from her show, and another popular tune, when she appears as a guest on "Salute to Youth," on Tuesday, November 23, at 6:30 p. m., over WLW. "Let's Keep It That Way" is her selection from the show's score, and her other number is "Close to You." This will be one of Miss Froman's first radio appearances following a Clipper crash in Lisbon last Spring, in which she was seriously injured. Raymond Paige and his "Young Americans" orchestra and male chorus round out the musical program with "Thank Your Lucky Stars," "Speak Low" and Malotte's musical setting of "The Lord's Prayer." Quentin Reynolds, war correspondent, narrates "The Service Story of the Week," and Ben Grauer interviews the program's guest from the production front.

RADIO NEWS NOTES
Dinah Shore is the top feminine singer in this country, according to more than 1,500 radio editors, writers, critics and radio agency executives who were polled by Accurate Radio Survey. Dinah, starred on CBS Thursday nights was followed by Kate Smith. In the male division the winner was Bing Crosby. Bing and Dinah have been spotlighted as a duet on past occasions. The Great Groaner is Dinah's idol.

Bet you didn't know there was an Ontario in the United States. It's located in California and is the home of an Army Air Base from where Kay Kyser and his

"College of Musical Knowledge" will be heard over NBC Wednesday, November 24.

Departing from their announced plan, because of lack of necessary facilities, Phil Spitalny and his "Hour of Charm" girls will not broadcast their December 5 program from the Chicago Stage Door Canteen. While arrangements for the broadcast on that date have not been completed, it is likely that the all-girl orchestra will return to New York for it.

Start of Old Clothing Drive To Be Delayed In Circleville

FEDERALS FAIL TO GIVE DATA FOR CAMPAIGN

National Undertaking Set To Start Monday—Local Leaders Mark Time

LATER DATE CONSIDERED

Committee Working With Schools On Collection Of Waste Paper

Circleville salvage officials are awaiting instructions from the Ohio Salvage committee and the War Production Board concerning the role the community is to play in a nationwide drive for collection of discarded clothing.

The campaign was announced Wednesday in Washington by the WPB, which is calling for discarded clothing to help in rehabilitating liberated European countries and for relief purposes at home.

The drive is to open next Monday, November 22, on a nationwide scale, and continue until December 4. However, there is no possibility that the drive may be opened here on that date.

Dan McClain, chief of local salvage operations, said Wednesday that it will not be possible to prepare for the drive in that time, but that as soon as more information is received from the government preparations will start for the campaign.

The local salvage committee is working Wednesday with school children of the city in collection of scrap paper, magazines, cardboard boxes and other kindred materials which are needed badly by the Container Corporation of America in its work. A similar campaign conducted a month ago proved to be a success, and salvagers are hoping that the effort today will bear fruit.

All school children had been asked to carry their bundles of papers, magazines, etc., to their respective school buildings. Persons having no children in school were asked to have the neighbor's youngsters carry their contributions to the respective buildings.

WFB is calling for full cooperation in the new discarded clothing project said that "while there is no shortage here at home, our manufacturing facilities are not great enough to make all the new clothing needed this winter in the occupied and liberated countries. Therefore, we are attempting to get enough discarded clothing to do the job."

The national office pointed out that among clothing items not wanted are spats, veils, brassieres, corsets, girdles, diapers and masquerade costumes.

ASHVILLE

Fred E. Brobst, local instrumental music teacher, has purchased a home at 809 South Cassingham Road, Columbus, where he will reside after November 23.

Postmaster S. L. Smith reports a gain in the amount of business transacted at the local postoffice during October as compared with the same month one year ago, $849.09 worth of postage stamps being sold in October, 1942 compared with $749.40 sold in October, 1943; 512 money orders also were issued last month. Mr. Smith and his assistant, Robert Welsh, have issued several thousand dollars worth of government bonds during World War II. Besides his duties as postmaster, Mr. Smith has been re-decorating his home on North Long street and building a new garage. This extra work, in addition to his postoffice duties, has caused him to burn quite a bit of the proverbial "midnight oil."

The P.T.A. has ordered an honor roll on which will be inscribed the names of former Ashville pupils who are now serving in our country's armed forces. This honor roll, which will be of a permanent nature, will be placed in the school building. The committee in charge already has compiled a list of approximately 160 names to place on this honor roll. It is hoped to have the roll completed before the December meeting of the P.T.A.

Mrs. Ola Forquer Welsh expects to spend several days visiting her son, George Forquer, who is stationed at the Parris Island Marine Base. George has recently been released from the base hospital, where he was confined because of a broken ankle.

A. B. Cooper and E. W. Seeds attended the Circleville Kiwanis meeting Monday.

Coming Events: November 17, Lutheran Brotherhood at Ashville; November 18, P.T.A. meeting; November 19, Ashville vs Lancaster St. Mary's at Ashville; November 21, Supper and conferring of Knight rank at Palmetto

ORNEY YOUNG GAINS PAROLE FROM PRISON

Orney Young, 52, of near Amanda, will be freed from the Ohio penitentiary December 20 on parole, but with his release calling for strict parole supervision for the next three years.

Young was granted a parole Wednesday by the state Pardon and Parole Commission with the three year provision stressed.

Young was convicted of second degree manslaughter here in the death of Thomas Paolucci, Mehafey, Pa., youth, last December 3. The youth, employed on a construction gang at the Lockbourne army air base, was fixing a tail light in front of a North Court street home where he roomed when he was struck by Young's car.

The Fairfield county man was charged with driving without lights. He did not stop his car after striking Paolucci. Young's car was damaged when he drove it into a tree on the Ringgold pike on his way home after the accident.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who arrested Young with the aid of Miller Fissell, then on the city force, said Young was intoxicated at the time.

The Paolucci youth's death was instant, his head being crushed between the Young car and the wheel of his own automobile.

Young pleaded guilty of manslaughter after being indicted. Judge Meeker Terwilliger sentencing him to serve one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary. He was admitted to the institution the day after last Christmas. Later, Young was transferred to the London prison farm.

Parole board members were informed by local authorities when Young's case came up for parole action that the fatal mishap took place only a few days after Young had been released from jail after serving a reckless operation fine and costs.

The commission indicated that it would ask Pickaway and Fairfield county authorities to keep a close check on the parolee during the three year parole period.

PACIFIC PRIZE: Russia Hopes to Regain Port Arthur, Lost to Japanese in 1905

By WILLIAM A. RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Correspondent
RUSSIA HAS MADE it clear that the scope of her war ambitions is repossession of all territories taken away from her. It has been pointed out that Finland, Bessarabia and the eastern half of Poland are territories which were taken away from the land-locked peoples.

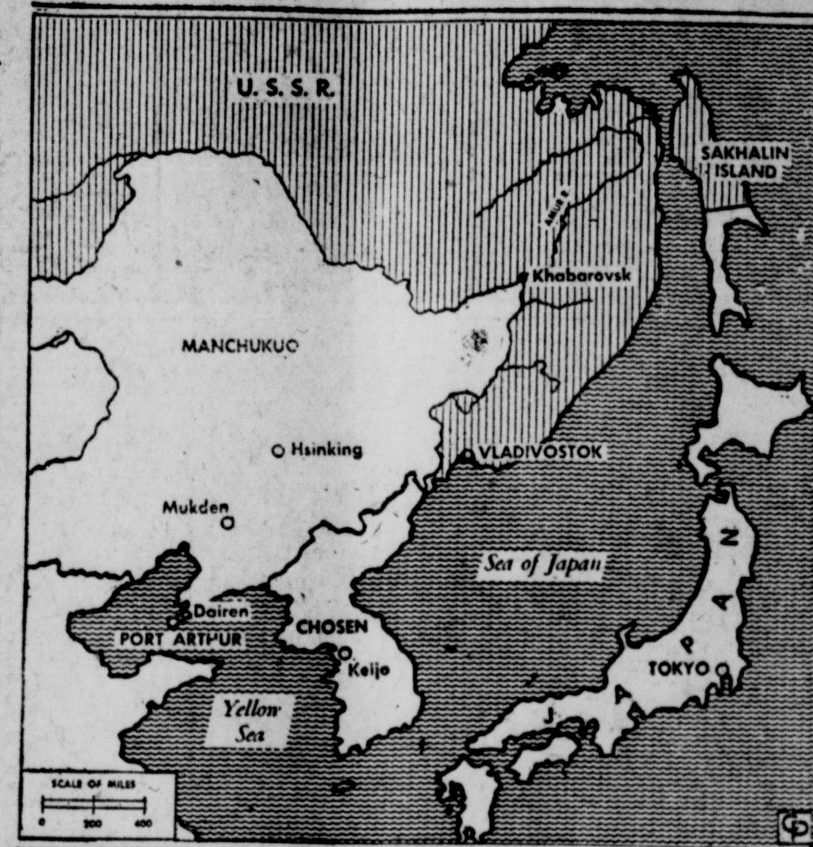

Port Arthur, which became a casualty of Russia's war with Japan at the turn of the century, has been completely overlooked—by everyone but the Russians. As a matter of fact, the Soviet nation is far more anxious to regain this prized port of the Pacific than it is to reach out for more land in Europe.

Ever since Peter the Great, the ultimate goal of Russia's ambitions was to win a direct and practical access to the great world seas. By 1900 the nation had turned its back upon western Europe and was making plans to develop Siberia and promote itself in the Pacific.

This conflicted with the budding plans of Japan and the two nations went to war. The corrupt administration of Tsar Nicholas could not wage an effective campaign. The poorly-equipped, badly-led army was crushed at Mukden. In desperation the Tsar dispatched a formidable fleet from Baltic bases to steam the then-incredible distance to the Orient and carry the war to Japan itself. The Japanese navy was waiting and ready. It intercepted the fleet and annihilated it in the Battle of Tsushima. The peace which was negotiated penalized Russia with the loss of Port Arthur.

Japs Grow Ambitious
Russia's ambitions in the Pacific were wrecked. The Japanese people went wild over the victories. Their leaders went wild with grandiose plans. World War I found Japan deceptively aligned with the Allies. A convenient alliance—for Japan—which enabled her to fall heir to the former German insular possessions in the Pacific.

The Allies did not trust Japan and the high command did not overlook the probability that the Nipponese would seize any pretext to take over parts of Siberia and seal Russia off from the Pacific ocean. considerably stiffer in their requirements than the comparable first seven grades in the United States, one of the most literate of nations.

Education in Russia
Plans have been completed in Russia to extend the period of compulsory public education up to the age of 16. The scholarship program is likely to be extended in scope. At present students who show intelligence and special aptitudes are granted scholarships which enable them to pursue their education to the full extent of their ability.

The average Russian's conception of the United States has not improved much over the situation of the Hoover depression days. The United States is still generally pictured among the Soviet masses as a land of a few idle rich and a great mass of workers, worse off than they. They still think of America as a nation of breadlines, sleeping on park benches, and parades of beggars—reminiscent of the bonus army march in Washington, D. C.

To justify her place among the great democracies of the world, Russia has launched a long range program of public education. Seven years of schooling are now compulsory in the U. S. S. R. and educators say that these seven years are

MUST BLOCK WILLKIE

Robert Lund, manufacturer of Listerine and the sugar daddy of St. Louis Republicans, had a confidential and highly illuminating pow-wow with high-up Republicans the other day in Washington.

Among those who attended the private dinner conference were Harrison Spangler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, bitter-end Congressman Harold Knutson of Minnesota, and old-timer Dan Reed, Republican Congressman from up-state New York.

Chief topic of conversation was how to block Willkie. Exactly how to block him was not decided. But at all costs it was felt he must be blocked.

The Republican chances now look brighter and brighter, so the last thing GOP conservatives want is anyone with a progressive Republican outlook in the White House.

'CHICKEN DINNER' MORRISON

The Government Printing Office, weighed down with war printing orders by the War and Navy Departments, the Treasury Department and other government agencies, also has its hands full with one of the largest political jobs in recent history.

The beneficiary is loquacious freshman Representative James H. Morrison of Louisiana. Much to the regret of the Government Printing Office, Jimmy is running for governor of Louisiana. Though 34-year-old Morrison has been in Congress less than a year, he has learned some tricks about getting federal help for his political ambitions that would make Congressional old-timers green with envy.

Already, 237,000 copies of speeches boosting his gubernatorial chances have been run off at cost rates by the Government Printing Office. The campaign literature is being distributed among Louisiana voters, and more of it is reportedly on order.

Whether any of this political material is being mailed at government cost, under Morrison's frank, has been kept a mystery. Franked material is usually inserted in envelopes by Capitol folding rooms and sent directly to the Washington post office for mailing. However, after preparing Morrison's campaign literature for mailing, House folding-room employees are instructed to return it to the Louisiana office, whence it is sent out in bags.

When a member of Congress elects to assume the mailing costs of personal or political letters, he usually instructs the folding room to leave off his frank. Morrison did not do this. Envelopes containing his speeches were stamped with his (free) frank before being returned to his office.

RABBIT HUNTING OUT OF SEASON BRINGS ARRESTS

Arrest of two Columbus hunters for taking rabbits out of season was reported Wednesday by Conservation Officers Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick. The hunters were William Saul, 290 Jenkins avenue, and William Selhloist, 57 Rogers avenue.

Both hunters were taken into custody Tuesday in northern Pickaway county. Each man arranged to pay a fine of $25 and costs in Squire B. T. Hedges' court.

The arrests boosted to four the number of persons charged with violations of game laws this week. One of the other two taken into court had pheasants prior to the season and the other had muskrat pelts two days ahead of the opening of the season.

CARPENTERS HEAR FROM SON IN PRISON CAMP

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Carpenter, Half avenue, have received a letter from their son, Private Robert Carpenter, who has been in a German prison camp for the last 10 months. The soldier indicates that he is well.

Mail for young Carpenter should be addressed: Private Robert Carpenter, American P. O. W. 2031, Stalag 2F, Germany, G-6453.

Private Carpenter was one of 13 Pickaway county youths taken captive last February in fighting in Tunisia. It is believed that all 13 of the youths are in German camps.

quest as Russia went through the throes of the revolution.

The United States sent an expeditionary force to Siberia. The Japs still hoped to annex choice slices of the great rich land and financed outland bands to stir up trouble. On the basis of these troubles, the Japs asked the Allied command for permission to increase their armed forces in Siberia.

The answer to the question: "Will Russia war with Japan?" is to be found in Russia's determination to make herself secure in the Pacific. In the opinion of Soviet officials this security can be realized only through repositioning of Port Arthur. Through this access to the Pacific, Russia feels that it will be possible to maintain friendship with the United States and Canada and make security a reality.

To justify her place among the great democracies of the world, Russia has launched a long range program of public education. Seven years of schooling are now compulsory in the U. S. S. R. and educators say that these seven years are

Robert Lund, manufacturer of Listerine and the sugar daddy of St. Louis Republicans, had a confidential and highly illuminating pow-wow with high-up Republicans the other day in Washington.

Among those who attended the private dinner conference were Harrison Spangler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, bitter-end Congressman Harold Knutson of Minnesota, and old-timer Dan Reed, Republican Congressman from up-state New York.

RABBIT HUNTING OUT OF SEASON BRINGS ARRESTS

Chief topic of conversation was how to block Willkie. Exactly how to block him was not decided. But at all costs it was felt he must be blocked.

The Republican chances now look brighter and brighter, so the last thing GOP conservatives want is anyone with a progressive Republican outlook in the White House.

'CHICKEN DINNER' MORRISON

The Government Printing Office, weighed down with war printing orders by the War and Navy Departments, the Treasury Department and other government agencies, also has its hands full with one of the largest political jobs in recent history.

The beneficiary is loquacious freshman Representative James H. Morrison of Louisiana. Much to the regret of the Government Printing Office, Jimmy is running for governor of Louisiana. Though 34-year-old Morrison has been in Congress less than a year, he has learned some tricks about getting federal help for his political ambitions that would make Congressional old-timers green with envy.

Already, 237,000 copies of speeches boosting his gubernatorial chances have been run off at cost rates by the Government Printing Office. The campaign literature is being distributed among Louisiana voters, and more of it is reportedly on order.

Whether any of this political material is being mailed at government cost, under Morrison's frank, has been kept a mystery. Frank material is usually inserted in envelopes by Capitol folding rooms and sent directly to the Washington post office for mailing. However, after preparing Morrison's campaign literature for mailing, House folding-room employees are instructed to return it to the Louisiana office, whence it is sent out in bags.

Arrest of two Columbus hunters for taking rabbits out of season was reported Wednesday by Conservation Officers Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick. The hunters were William Saul, 290 Jenkins avenue, and William Schloist, 57 Rogers avenue.

Both hunters were taken into custody Tuesday in northern Pickaway county. Each man arranged to pay a fine of $25 and costs in Squire E. T. Hedges' court.

The arrests boosted to four the number of persons charged with violations of game laws this week. One of the other two taken into court had pheasants prior to the season and the other had muskrat pelts two days ahead of the opening of the season.

CARPENTERS HEAR FROM SON IN PRISON CAMP

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Carpenter, Half avenue, have received a letter from their son, Private Robert Carpenter, who has been in a German prison camp for the last 10 months. The soldier indicates that he is well.

Mail for young Carpenter should be addressed: Private Robert Carpenter, American P. O. W. 20314, Stalag 2F, Germany, G-6453.

Private Carpenter was one of 13 Pickaway county youths taken captive last February in fighting in Tunisia. It is believed that all 13 of the youths are in German camps.

... or how to make a pal in Panama
¿Qué tal? says the polite citizen of Panama when he wants to show interest in your welfare. Fully as cordial is the Have a "Coke" of the American soldier. In any language these three short words say, Friend o' mine—understood in Panama as in Pittsburgh. Around the world Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, —has become the high-sign of friendly-minded folks.
